

Hearing on Sanity Is Started Today For Charles Ford

Aged Resident of Phoenicia Faces Test Which May Mean Commitment to Matteawan for Fatal Shooting

Acts Strangely

Officials Indicate Prisoner Has Been Acting Strangely at County Jail

A proceeding was under way in County Court this afternoon before County Judge Frederick G. Traver in the matter of the commitment of Charles Ford, 75-year-old Phoenicia resident, to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. Ford is charged by indictment with the shooting of Harvey W. Clancy, 40, of Phoenicia, at that village on October 22. At that time it was charged that Ford, one of the famous Ulster county bear hunters, had shot Clancy in an argument over a real estate deal.

Clancy was fatally wounded with a shotgun at the front entrance to his grill in Phoenicia as he was returning to his place of business in company with friends after inspecting a hunting log outside. It was charged that Ford waited at an adjoining barber shop and opened fire on Clancy as he and his companions started toward the grill entrance. Clancy died immediately from gunshot wounds.

Ford left the scene and went to his home where he was arrested by State Trooper Soule who had been stopping over night in the village hotel on his tour of this locality with the State Trooper truck weighing equipment.

Later Ford was brought to the county jail and arraigned before County Judge Traver, sitting as a committing magistrate. Judge Traver held the aged man for grand jury action on a first degree murder charge and later the grand jury returned a bill charging murder, second degree. Ford pleaded not guilty and was represented by former Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Francis Martucci.

Of late Ford has been acting strangely, jail officials say, and early this week he was taken to the Kingston Hospital for treatment following a slight stroke.

During his stay in jail he was under treatment by Dr. Kenneth Lefevre, jail physician.

On Wednesday of this week Dr. J. McNeill, superintendent of the Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents, at the request of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, made an examination of Ford's mental condition as a result of recent actions of the defendant. The result of his examination will be testified to at the hearing this afternoon. It is understood that the examination showed Ford to be in such condition that he should be committed to Matteawan for treatment. Should he recover he would be brought back for trial on the murder charge.

Several witnesses had been summoned to testify at the hearing this afternoon before Judge Traver. The hearing was called for 2 o'clock.

Relief Workers Questioned

Oklahoma City, March 3 (AP)—Officers prepared to question 100 relief workers today in search of clues to the brutal garroting and bludgeoning of Haselton Black, slender 15-year-old junior high school girl. Detective Capt. Charles Ryan planned to question the relief workers who labored in a park across the street from the brick cottage in which the girl's body, clad in pink pajamas and a blue housecoat, was found. Ryan said he hoped to find a lead to three men whom neighboring housewives saw near the girl's home.

Wants No Lawyers

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Secretary Ickes was called for jury duty but was excused. Explaining this, he said: "I simply said to the judge, 'I'm a lawyer you know,' and right then he didn't want me on the jury."

U. S. Protests

Authorities Join Anglo-French Officials in Action Against Fence Around Tientsin

Tientsin, March 3 (AP)—United States consular authorities joined British and French officials today in representations to Japanese authorities against the enclosing of foreign areas of Tientsin with an electrified fence.

The representations stressed that the fence endangered United States, British and French nationals in the populous foreign sections. No specific reference was made to the concessions concerned, British, Italian, French and Japanese.

(A dispatch from Tientsin February 23 when the live wire fence was being strung around British, French, Italian and Japanese concessions, said the barrier was designed to cut off uncontrolled shipments into Tientsin.)

Co-Ed Threatened

Barbara Lee (above), 19-year-old Syracuse co-ed and daughter of Benjamin L. Lee, prominent Cuyler, N. Y., farmer, alleged by FBI agents to have been threatened by Robert George Case, 27, (below), in an extortion attempt. Case was arrested by G-men near Cuyler recently.

Bakery Owner Is Said to Have Bought Brewery

Report That Gottfried Buys Ruppert-Operated Barmann Plant Is Unverified; Has Ellenville Interests

A report that the Barmann brewery in this city, which has been owned and operated by the Jacob Ruppert Brewing Company for some time, would shortly change hands could not be verified through the management of the brewery today.

It is reported that title is shortly to be taken by Harold Gottfried, New York bakery chain owner, who owned the property and operated it just prior to the time the Ruppert interests took over the plant.

The report being circulated is that the ownership of the plant on Barmann avenue will change to Mr. Gottfried within the next few weeks. At the brewery it was reported that Walter H. Bergquist, manager for the Jacob Ruppert Company, was out of town.

Mr. Gottfried heads the Pure Rock Co. at Ellenville owners of the former Sun Ray water plant which for years produced Sun-Ray water which had a wide sale throughout the land.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 3 (AP)—The position of the Treasury March 1: Receipts, $11,955,408.15; expenditures, $7,212,473.97; net balance, $3,346,564,996.69; including $2,039,114,229.19 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,232,325,162.36; gross debt, $39,915,291,896.38, an increase of $56,628,413.11 above the previous day; gold assets, $14,588,072,652.93.

Completes Maiden Flight

Hongkong, March 3 (AP)—Pan American Airways' new 40-ton 74-passenger Clipper today completed her maiden trans-Pacific flight, alighting here on the final leg from Manila. She carried mail, express and 28 persons, all members of the staffs of Pan American Airways or the Boeing and Wright companies.

Tonight Is Deadline

Tonight is the last night that the city treasurer's office will remain open between 7 and 9 o'clock for the convenience of taxpayers who desire to pay the first installment of the general city tax without the imposition of a penalty.

Combination Plan Now Taking Shape Among Lawmakers

New Program Which Would Combine Economies and Substitute More Acceptable Taxation, Is Studied

Betting Bill

Proposal Would Legalize and Tax Pari-Mutuel Betting by 1940

Albany, N. Y., March 3 (AP)—A possible combination of economies and substitution of a more acceptable tax for the proposed levy on real estate was authoritatively reported today under consideration by legislative leaders studying Governor Lehman's $415,032,122 budget.

Chief protest against the Democratic chief executive's proposed three new taxes has centered on his recommended $1-a-$1,000 of valuation impost on real property which he estimated would yield $26,000,000.

A proposal seeking legalization and taxing of pari-mutuel betting by 1940, viewed as the possible source of between $2,500,000 and $4,000,000 of revenue applicable to the upcoming budget, was introduced in the legislature.

Other developments: Submission of two bills which would give New York city's board of estimate salary-fixing powers over employees of local courts and county offices.

Threat of a "last ditch" fight by women against any sales tax.

New Channel Sought

With no definite Republican financial program yet agreed upon, leaders pondered possibility of a $10,000,000 pruning of appropriations and cast about for a new tax channel to the other $16,000,000.

Among possible revenue sources mentioned were taxes on cigarettes, cosmetics or a penny addition on the 4-cents-a-gallon on gasoline.

On the economic side, discussion was reported on possible suspension of the yearly salary increments for certain civil service workers mandated under the Field-Hamilton law, estimated to save $2,500,000; a $2,000,000 saving on state aid for education, and various other budget cuts aggregating $5,000,000.

May Keep Single Payment

Legislators turned eyes on an estimated $5,000,000 of revenue they saw available by continuing to collect on April 15 the entire one percent of the existing emergency tax on income. The governor suggested that quarterly payments be permitted. Retention of the single payment, in view of the difference between the calendar and July 1 fiscal year, would make that $5,000,000 available for the 1938-1940 budget.

The proposal to lift the constitutional ban on pari-mutuels was introduced by Republican Assemblyman Norman P. Penny, Nassau county. T. M. Sherman, secretary of the board of estimate, estimated to produce between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000 of annual tax revenue, was identical with that sponsored by Democratic Senator John J. Dunnigan and approved by the 1938 legislature.

Where It Hurts Most

"It would hit where it hurts most," she said in a statement, "the small wage and salary earner and the home owner and housewife struggling to live on reduced income."

The bills giving New York city's board of estimate salary-fixing powers was sponsored by Republican Senator Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh. It would permit the board also, subject to the civil service law, to reclassify or abolish positions, except those of judges, in New York county offices and courts.

Employees' salaries are now fixed by the judges and elected county officers, under powers mandated by the legislature. "These two bills, introduced on behalf of the local authorities of the city of New York," Desmond said, "will stop the practice of mandating budget-making officials in imposing taxes to pay charges which they know to be unnecessary and wasteful."

Senator Wicks' Measure Would Have School Actions Tried in Home County of District

Albany, March 3.—(Special)—Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Republican, of Kingston, is sponsor in the legislature of a bill providing that all actions and proceedings against school districts, boards and trustees, must be tried in the county in which the district is situated.

The measure also provides that no person shall be deemed incompetent as a judge, witness or juror by reason of his being an inhabitant or taxpayer of the district.

The bill was referred to Senate education committee for further consideration. Other bills introduced by Senator Wicks are:

Spending Issue Rushes To Front in Congress

Senator Harrison Makes Demand for Drastic Government Economy; Prediction Is That Congressional Arguments Will Occupy President With Major Problems

Washington, March 3 (AP)—A demand for drastic government economy brought the spending issue to the foreground today as President Roosevelt was returning from naval maneuvers to begin the seventh year of his administration. The congressional arguments over spending and foreign policies, along with the administration drive to improve business through cooperative efforts of industry, government and labor, will furnish the chief executive with his most pressing problems during the next few weeks.

He may outline his views on them when he addresses the 150th shortly after his return tomorrow morning.

Unprecedented Forum
Congressmen said the occasion, exactly six years after his first inauguration, would offer him an unprecedented forum for discussing current issues. Gathered in the house chamber will be not only senators and representatives, but also virtually every high government official and 100 diplomats representing 54 countries.

The program, including addresses by Speaker Bankhead, Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), and Chief Justice Hughes, will be broadcast nationally at noon, eastern standard time.

Senator Harrison's call last night for a "radical and substantial" cut in congressional appropriations became a factor in the business cooperation campaign, for he said a lowering of the spending level would be the best thing that could happen to improve business.

Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, declared in his statement that the alternative to stringent economy was new taxes and a substantial increase in the national debt.

Senator Harrison's call last night for a "radical and substantial" cut in congressional appropriations became a factor in the business cooperation campaign, for he said a lowering of the spending level would be the best thing that could happen to improve business.

Sailing Up Atlantic
Charleston, S. C., March 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt was sailing up the south Atlantic coast for this port today after a two weeks voyage that gave him an opportunity to see first hand how the United States would go about resisting a south Atlantic attack.

The fact that the fleet maneuvers were undermost in his mind and that Congress is now acting on his emergency defense proposals while debating foreign policies in general gave rise to speculation among some members of his party here that he may couch upon world affairs in his speech to the 150th anniversary session of Congress tomorrow.

The Chief Executive was due here on the Cruiser Houston late this afternoon. He will entrain for Washington between 7 and 8 p. m. arriving tomorrow morning.

Will Attend Services
Before going to the capital for joint memorial session around noon he will attend services at St. John's Episcopal Church near the White House in accordance with the custom he established on his first March 4 inauguration.

During his journey here from the Caribbean he was worked on his Washington address and was believed today to have about completed it.

The belief that he may at least refer to foreign affairs in the talk was strengthened by the fact that this subject was the keynote of his two brief radio talks on February 18 just before embarking for tropical waters at Key West, Fla.

In those speeches he spoke of the determination of the American republics to maintain the institutions of Democracy in the Western World and to "lift Democracy high above the ugly truce of autocracy."

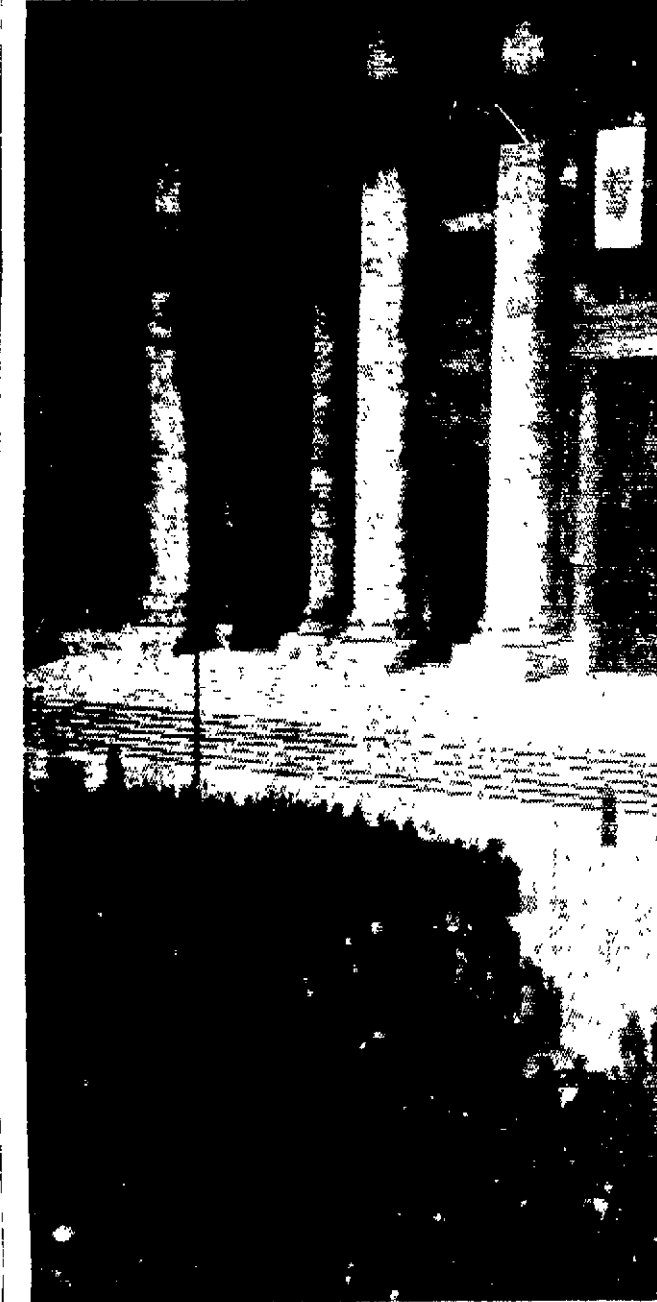

The usual honors were to be accorded the Chief Executive upon his arrival today. A 21 gun salute from navy yard batteries was planned as the Houston approached the dock.

Amending the vehicle and traffic law, excepting hearses or combination of hearse and ambulance, in any town of less than 2,000 population, while being used for transporting sick or injured persons from the provision of purposes of motor vehicles transporting passengers for hire.

Amending the tax law, providing that the share of franchise taxes on banks due a town fire district having a treasurer, must be paid to the treasurer, instead of to the town supervisor as the law provides at present.

Each of these measures has been referred to committee for further consideration.

Seven Are Freed In Bail, Further Charges Expected

Prosecutor Amen Says Brooklyn's Investigation Reveals 'Fur' Salesmen Sold 'Empty' Truckloads

New York, March 3 (AP)—Seven of 10 persons named in bribery and grand larceny indictments were free on bail today, and Special Prosecutor John Harlan Amen predicted additional charges against others would be forthcoming in Brooklyn's law enforcement investigation.

Included in those named in the three indictments were Isadore Jaffe, whose statement "I paid plenty" touched off the investigation, and three suspended patrolmen.

Each of the 10 was indicted on two counts of grand larceny and bribery in connection with an alleged $150,000 fur swindle.

Jaffe asserted when he was arrested a year ago that he had "paid plenty" to an unidentified public prosecutor to escape prosecution. Despite the statement of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan that he had evidence to disprove the assertion, Governor Lehman named Amen to supersede Geoghan in an inquiry into charges of official corruption.

Charges against seven of the 10 superseded previous indictments.

The three named yesterday and not previously indicted were: Samuel Gitter of Newark, N. J.; Isadore Friedman and a fugitive whose name was not disclosed.

Others indicted included Patrolmen Oliver P. Swank, 43, Edward C. Schondelmeier, 34, and Jacob Balkin, 36; and Nathan Krapes, 48, Sam Davis, 38, and Abram Zager, who Amen said was a fugitive who had jumped bail of $10,000 last July.

The unnamed fugitive was identified by Herman L. Weisman, Amen's assistant, as leader of a gang engaged in racketeering in other mercantile fields, in addition to the fur business.

Balkin's arraignment was postponed until March 15. He is free on $15,000 bail on a previous indictment.

Amen said gang members representing themselves as furriers sold "truckloads" of supposed furs to buyers they had previously interested by the display of "samples." Actually, Amen said, the trucks were empty. Enroute to the purchaser's delivery address.

U. S. Treasury Check Awaits Phenia Howard

A check for a substantial sum made out by the United States Treasury Department was turned in to The Freeman office today when a Freeman subscriber who found it was unable to locate its owner.

The check is made out to Phenia E. Howard of 27 Lucas avenue, but the finder said there was no one by that name living at the address given on the check. The owner by identifying it may claim it at the Freeman Office.

Dr. Chipp Is Held As Drunken Driver

Kingston Dentist Awaits Action as Second Offender; Fined $200 in 1928

Dr. Elvin D. Chipp, dentist of 128 Clinton avenue, waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, when he was arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court today.

Judge Cahill fixed bail in the sum of $500, and Dr. Chipp was taken to the county jail in one of the radio cars where at the time The Freeman went to press he was being held in lieu of bail.

Dr. Chipp was arraigned in police court as a second offender as he had been arrested for a similar charge in 1928, at which time he was fined $200.

Dr. Chipp was arrested shortly after 2 o'clock this morning when the police department received a telephone call that a car had crashed into several parked cars on upper Broadway.

An alarm was sent out over the radio and Dr. Chipp was picked up by Officers Koedell and Fallon and was held until arraigned later in court.

Dr. Chipp's car was taken to the police garage.

Williams Is Held

New York, March 3 (AP)—Julius "Red" Williams, who was a negro district captain for Tammany District Leader James J. Hines and who was indicted for second-degree perjury because of his recantation of testimony given before the grand jury that indicted Hines, pleaded innocent today and was held in $10,000 bail for trial March 5.

Receives Cardinals

Entire College of Cardinals Is Gathered in Sistine Chapel for Discourse

"It Seems God's Will"

Rome, March 3 (AP)—Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli with these words accepted election as supreme pontiff of the Holy Roman Church.

"It seems God's will that this burden should fall on me in this sense I accept it. I shall take the name of Pius XII."

Vatican City, March 3 (AP)—Pius XII opened his pontificate today with a strong appeal for peace and a special prayer "in these troublesome and difficult hours" for those who guide the destinies of nations.

His appeal was broadcast to the entire Christian world less than 24 hours after his election to the throne of St. Peter and shortly after he had set his coronation for Sunday, March 12.

Speaking for five minutes in Latin from the Sistine chapel, he expressed his hope and appeal for "that peace, sublime gift of heaven, which is desired by all honest souls and which is the fruit of charity and justice."

Invitation to Peace

"We invite everybody to peace of conscience, tranquil in the friendship of God; to peace of families, united and harmonized by holy love of Christ and, finally, to peace among nations through mutual, brotherly assistance and friendly collaboration," he said.

"In these troublesome and difficult hours while so many difficulties seem to impede attainment of that peace which is the most profound inspiration of hearts, we raise to the Lord a special prayer for all those who are entrusted with the high honor and the grave burden of guiding peoples on the road to prosperity and progress."

Thus, like his predecessor, Pius XI, Pius XII made peace the keynote of his policy.

His Holiness began his message with an expression of most profound emotion "before the tremendous responsibility to which divine providence in its inscrutable designs has called us."

'Paternal Embrace'

He gave his "paternal embrace" to the Sacred College of Cardinals—of which until yesterday he was a member as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli—and then extended his blessings to the brothers of the episcopate, the priests and nuns, missions, Catholic Action and "all our sons throughout the world." The Pontiff said his thoughts "run also to all those who are outside the church, to those who will be pleased to know that the Pope raises for them to the highest and greatest God, prayers and wishes for every good."

In response to the message of congratulation on his election from Premier Mussolini, Pius XII invoked divine aid for the Italian government and bestowed his apostolic benediction.

The secretary of state's office acknowledged Il Duce's greeting sent last night, with a telegram which said his message "in the name of beloved Italy" confirmed "what the people of Rome eloquently signified."

"Grateful to Your Excellency and to all members of the government," it added, "the Holy Father invokes divine assistance on you."

Dome Is Ready

Palomar Mountain Observatory Work Progresses; Big Eye Ready in 1940

Pasadena, Calif., March 3 (AP)—The dome for the 200-inch telescope at Palomar Mountain observatory is "essentially complete," a 48-inch scouting telescope will be installed this year, but the big mirror itself will not be ready before 1940, Dr. J. A. Anderson, executive officer, said in a report made available today.

"An 18-inch Schmidt telescope housed in a 20-foot dome, completed in 1934, has been in regular use since then, and a 45-foot dome to accommodate a 48-inch Schmidt telescope is nearing completion," Dr. Anderson declared.

"The 72-inch disk for the latter mirror has been received in Pasadena, and, although no construction work has yet been done on this telescope, the plans are to install it during 1939." "The 200-inch dome, 137 feet in diameter, is essentially complete."

BPW to Repair Streets in Spring

Winter's damage to the city's streets will be repaired as soon as the frost is out of the ground, although temporary patchwork is being done in some of the danger spots. It was stated at the office of the Board of Public Works today.

The winter has been extremely hard on the pavements in the city, and there is considerable patching to be done. It was said that it is not feasible to patch streets until the frost leaves the ground, since patches will not hold.

A particularly bad spot in the pavement is on Abel street at the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge. In order to make proper repairs, it was said that it would be necessary to rip up considerable of the old pavement and relay it.

On Broadway there are a number of holes in the pavement and on nearly every street there is patching work that must be done as soon as weather conditions permit.

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 2.—The March meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Shokan Reformed Church was held Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Homer Markle. Several of the ladies came in the forenoon to do quilting for the annual fair. Those who worked on the quilt were Mrs. Markle, Mrs. Viola Bell, Mrs. Anner Longyear, Mrs. Arthur Carter, Mrs. Herbert Dibble and Mrs. Edna Longyear. The business session at 2 o'clock was in charge of Mrs. August Pfau, vice president of the aid. Mrs. Pfau and Mrs. Fred Aditt were appointed chairmen of the committees to arrange for a roast pork supper to be held in the church basement Tuesday evening, March 23. Refreshments, consisting of cake, coffee and tea, followed the quilting of the business session. Other members attending the meeting were Mrs. William Green, Mrs. Fred Aditt, Mrs. Clyde Winchell, Mrs. Santi Nadal, Mrs. Frank Barringer and Mrs. Charles Giles.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richter spent the week-end with relatives in New York, and on Friday attended a party given in honor of the 70th birthday of Mrs. J. Tooman, who is Mrs. Richter's mother.

W. J. Niles of Kingston was numbered among the recent callers in the village center.

Word reached here Tuesday that Herman Wendt, Sr., of Shokan and Elmhurst, had died Monday night of a heart attack.

Mr. Wendt, who conducted a refreshment place and filling station on the state road for several months each year, was a voter here and had many friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh broke an arm as a result of a fall at the Van Steenburgh farm one day last week.

Oliver Town Assessors John Davis and Homer Markle, Sr., were working in this section last week.

March 1, 1894, Nathan W. Watson died at Canaan, Conn. Mr. Watson came to Shokan from Canaan in 1843 and engaged in the tanning business at Watsonville (later Watson Hollow). His tannery, one of the largest in the state, was destroyed by fire in 1867. He served as supervisor and assemblyman and was a leader in the movement for a railroad through the town of Oliver.

Charles H. Weldner is a great-grandson of Mr. Watson.

Mrs. A. Perry Loomis of Phoenixia was a caller in the village last week.

George Vander Osten, who for the past several weeks has been a patient in a veterans' hospital in New York, sent his thanks to members of the Ladies' Aid for their individual gifts of valentines.

George, as well as his friends in the ward, received a deal of pleasure from the valentine shower.

Marvin Green has tapped his maple trees along the state and early roads and is having a good early run of sap.

Miss Edna Longyear was hostess to her bridge club at the Longyear home on the old road Tuesday afternoon. The next meeting of the club will take place at Mrs. Earl North's home.

Mrs. Ellen A. Merrihue, whose funeral was held Saturday at the Torgue Church, will well known to a number of Shokan residents.

Mrs. Merrihue, who was an aunt of Mrs. Nell Windrum, formerly was an occasional visitor to the home of her sister, the late Mrs. Ira Elmendorf.

The annual congregational meeting of the Shokan Reformed Church will be held in the church Friday evening, March 10. The usual covered dish supper for those attending the meeting will be served at 6 o'clock in the church basement.

Local farmers report an influx of crows during the past few days.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 3 (AP)—In the stock market an advance today carried many issues up 1 to 2 points and landed a number in high territory for the past year.

Dealings, rather fast in the forenoon, subsequently slackened, but transfers were at the rate of approximately 900,000 shares, or around 300,000 better than yesterday. Near the final hour leaders were near the top marks of the day.

More optimism over prospects for at least a moderate spring business upturn and lessening of worries regarding foreign affairs, brokers said, had much to do with bringing traders back into buying ranks.

That there was no great rush to take commitments it was thought, may have reflected the desire of the speculative community to await President Roosevelt's comments in a speech scheduled to be made tomorrow on the occasion of the 150th anniversary of the opening of congress.

Aiding sentiment was a revival of demand for American stocks in London. U. S. government securities led the bond department on a forward tilt. Commodities were irregularly higher.

Industrials and Utilities Dropped Back on Thursday

Rail averages, which for the past 10 days, with a couple of exceptions, have been on the up side, just managed to stay there in Thursday's trading, while industrials and utilities slid off for small losses.

The rail advance was 0.02 point, to 32.47 in the Dow-Jones averages. Industrials were off 0.19 point, to 146.96 and utilities declined 0.03 point, to 25.76. Trading remained dull, with volume 600,000 shares.

Bonds were slightly higher, with governments in the lead.

Commodities showed reactionary tendencies, with trading at a lower pace. Silk futures dropped from 15 to 16 cents a pound, (there were no offerings in sugar and cocoa; wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 cent lower; cotton rallied toward the close of the day and was unchanged to three points higher.

The recent rise in silk prices is causing increased attention to be given to rayon. Most manufacturers of silk hosiery have advanced prices on their unbranded lines. Some are considering an advance of 50 cents a dozen.

Foreign markets were irregular and inactive. Rumors of Italian mobilization caused lack of confidence on the London exchange for a while, but the rumors later were denied and international issues rallied sharply. Industrial issues closed slightly off.

The outlook for business was brightened yesterday by indications that railroads of the country are planning to do extensive buying from the heavy industries and a warning from the economy bloc in Congress that it will oppose strongly further increase in the national debt. The bloc gave warning through Senator Harrison, Mississippi Democrat, that it would strongly oppose any increase in the public debt limit, now fixed by law at 45 billions of dollars.

Senator Harrison's statement anticipated an official administration request to increase the debt limit to $50,000,000,000. Senators Harbord and Clegg, both Republicans, held that in continuing to hold a view to continuing appropriations for the next fiscal year some members had urged a horizontal cut of 10 per cent or more.

Barron's index showed that volume of business last week was 71.8 per cent of normal, unchanged from the previous week.

Nash had sales of 2,132 cars in the first 20 days of February, up 32 per cent from the 1938 period, a Cadillac-la Salle shipped 7,700 cars in February, 85 per cent above February shipments last year.

Some further net income reports for 1938 included: W. T. Grant Co., $2,766,000, or $1.09 a share, vs. $2,401,725, or $0.92 a share, for 1937.

Continental Can Co., $2,170,000, or $1.65 a share, vs. $2,000,000, or $1.54 a share, for 1937.

He was born nearly 70 years ago at the then New Palis Landing, the son of Nathan and Harriet Carpenter

Snyder Explains Policy of Legion

The policy of Kingston Post, American Legion, to provide a firing squad in tribute to deceased veterans applies to those who served the United States in any of its wars, Nelson W. Snyder, adjutant of the local post, announced today.

Instructions, as to the firing squad service of the local legionnaires are included in the following letter:

To All Funeral Directors, Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen: It has been brought to our attention that recently a member of your profession informed the relatives of a deceased veteran that a firing squad was not available, unless the veteran was a member of the American Legion or some similar organization.

We believe each of you were aware of the fact that Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, is ready and willing at all times to furnish a firing squad for a deceased veteran, regardless of what war he may have served in, and whether he is a member of the Legion or not.

Your cooperation is solicited in this matter. You are in a position to secure this information and we would appreciate it, if, when you are called upon to render a service to the family of a deceased veteran, you will ascertain if they desire this service or any other which this post may be able to render. See that the American flag which is provided is placed on the casket, and where circumstances are such that relief is needed, inform them about the provisions made by the federal government for the burial of a veteran.

In case you are not familiar with these provisions, an allowance of one hundred dollars ($100.00) is provided for burial expenses, and a marker may be had which will be furnished by the government and shipped to the nearest freight depot. From this point it must be removed and placed on the burial plot at their expense. Forms for securing these allowances must be made out, and can be secured from the post service officer or at the post headquarters, 18 West O'Reilly street.

Notice of the death of a veteran will be appreciated by us and we believe that you will cooperate with us fully, in order that final rites and respects, when desired, may be accorded those who gave their services to their country.

Yours truly,
NELSON W. SNYDER,
Adjutant, Kingston Post, No. 150,
American Legion.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, March 3.—A Woodstock Home Bureau meeting will be held on March 9 at the home of Mrs. George Layman. The meeting will combine the completion of this year's business matters with a lesson on correct working heights. Miss Neva Shultis will conduct the lesson, giving demonstrations of the efficiency of proper heights in sinks, tables, broom handles, etc.

On Sunday evening the Young People's Service will be held in the Methodist Church, and the mid-week service was held on Thursday in the Reformed Church. These services are being held with the co-operation of the Woodstock Lutheran, M. E. and Reformed churches, throughout the observance of Lent.

R. J. Lapo returned this week to his work on the mail route after being confined to his home with scarlet fever for over a month.

Miss Josephine Chaplin is in a Kingston Hospital recovering from an appendix operation. Miss Dorothea Solomon is in a New York Hospital with a septic infection.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolven have returned from a two week's visit in New York and Peekskill where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Thomas.

Mrs. Clarence Lapo celebrated her birthday Friday.

Five of Eight Working Hours Go to Pay for Food and Rent

By The AP Feature Service

Is this how your eight-hour day goes?
A United States Department of Labor survey in 32 cities showed that the average eight-hour-a-day wage-earner making up to $2,500 a year had to work two hours and 31 minutes every day to feed a family of four persons.

The National Consumers Tax Commission, interested in fighting "hidden" taxes, broke down the rest of the working day, as shown.

For instance, a person punching the time-clock at 8 a. m. worked a little after 10 for housing.

The commission reports also that the worker puts in 37 minutes a day to run his car, 24 minutes for life insurance, 25 minutes for medical care, 19 minutes for household expenses, 15 for recreation and books, 17 for furniture, 14 for gifts or luxuries, 10 minutes for tobacco and four minutes for education. The commission estimates that the average wage-earner works 57 minutes in each day to pay for taxes levied on commodities and passed on to him as part of the purchase price.

Postal Telegraph Mails Plan to Bondholders

The amended plan of reorganization of Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation, which was recently declared "fair, equitable and feasible" by Judge Cox of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, was today mailed to all known bond holders for their acceptance as required by the bankruptcy act. The plan, among other things, calls for the payment of $10 in cash to the holder of each $1,000 bond and for the issue to the bond holders of securities in proposed new corporations. The plan involves putting together of Postal's cable and radio system with All America Cables and Radio, Inc., and Sociedad Anonima Radio Argentina, and for the creation of a new corporation to own postal land line system. Traffic arrangements to be made between the new corporations will preserve the existing business relationships for interchange of cable, radio and telegraph messages.

Bondholders assenting to the plan are required to send their bonds to Bankers Trust Company, New York, for stamping. An interesting feature is that such acceptances are irrevocable until confirmation of the plan, thereby assuring that both stamped and unstamped bonds will be a delivery on all sales of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, with the result that there will be but one market quotation covering both stamped and unstamped bonds.

Short-wave radios are not permitted in Japan. Military authorities fear the Japanese public would hear too much Communist and pacifist propaganda.

South Rondout Library Popular

South Rondout, March 2.—An experiment that has proven successful is the establishment of a library in the hamlet of South Rondout on the banks of the Rondout creek, opposite Kingston. The library was founded on Christmas Day, 1938, by Mrs. William Walker at her home there. The library was opened with 100 books that had been collected by the Rev. Richard Swigger, pastor of the South Rondout M. E. Church.

Since the library was first opened in the Walker residence there have been some 34 patrons, mostly young folks between the ages of 7 to 21. Although the library was not established for the use of the youth alone, but few adults have so far availed themselves of the facilities offered, although the library contains a number of books on scientific, religious, historical and biographical subjects that would prove of interest to older readers.

The opening of the library has brought an added cultural interest to the community, it is conducted without cost to the hamlet, and it is hoped that it can continue to do so. More books are needed but only the better class of fiction and non-fiction is desired, and those who desire to contribute books should get in touch with the Rev. Mr. Swigger or Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Walker has been connected with educational work for a number of years. She is a member of the National Education Association of Washington, D. C., and a member of the National Parent-Teacher Association and active in the P. T. A. in Albany county.

The Rev. Mr. Swigger came to South Rondout as pastor of the

M. E. Church there a year ago, and both he and his wife have been active in the religious and civic life of the community. An interesting program for the coming year there has been planned, including a community playground on land that was filled in last fall from the creek.

PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM

It is not necessary for government and business in this country to love each other. The two types of citizen represent such different outlook and, even when they are both quite honest, such different forms of loyalty, that it is hard for them to understand each other.

The business man is naturally thinking first of success in his line, of group loyalty to the people and interests he represents. And he does not regard this attitude as disloyal to his country or antagonistic to his government. It is his natural way of thinking. He is a product of his job and environment, and he tends to harmonize his natural thinking with his group or class thinking.

The labor leader is likewise preoccupied with his immediate surroundings and interests. He and the people associated with him consider it right, and even patriotic, to think and act as they do, and are inclined to distrust both business and government where interests seem to clash.

The statesman who has spent the best working years of his life in public service naturally feels himself a champion and representative of an impersonal government supreme over all classes. And when honest—as statesmen usually are, in spite of cynical distrust of them among other groups—he regards himself as a patriot, even when upholding an unwise policy. We are all "conditioned" by our jobs and surroundings.

All we can expect, then, is for these competing groups to admit each other's good intentions, and to compromise their differences and work together for a common purpose as sensible citizens and patriots.

There are some indications that we are coming into such a workable arrangement now, to liquidate this long, devouring depression and start ahead again.

THE FIRST SALUTE

Interest in geography and American history is stimulated by the President's current vacation cruise. The other day, it is reported, his ship, following fleet maneuvers near the Lesser Antilles, stopped at Oranjestad, capital of the Netherlands-owned island of St. Eustasius. Some of the kids in school may be able to locate those places, but most parents will have to get out the atlas and brush up on their geography.

Admiral Leahy of the Houston and other members of the party went on shore to convey the compliments of the President to the administrator of the island and to visit an ancient fort there. The visit had historical significance.

It seems that an American boat anchored in the same harbor in November, 1776. The captain went ashore and read the Declaration of Independence, then only four months old, to the Dutch governor. The latter ordered a salute fired to honor the new flag of thirteen stripes. That, it is said, was the first recognition of the new American nation by any foreign nation.

It is pleasant to think that the Dutch governor never had to regret his action.

We Americans are not rash. But just give us time enough, and we'll get everything done. Georgia, for instance, is now ratifying the constitutional Bill of Rights submitted by Thomas Jefferson 150 years ago.

Basic principle of democracy: All of us know more than any of us. Basic principle of autocracy: One of us knows more than all of us.

SELF-SUFFICIENCY

Economists have been saying for years that it would be sensible for this country to store up, against a possible time of dearth and trouble, a lot of materials we do not produce ourselves. Otherwise war, actual or prospective, might catch us without things seriously needed for domestic or military use. Now steps are being taken to avoid such a calamity.

The Thomas bill introduced in the Senate, and unanimously approved by the military committee, aims to spend $100,000,000 of public money in the next four years to accumulate a reserve of copper, tin, rubber, silk, wool, tungsten, manganese and various other metals, chemicals, etc., to keep our industries going for a reasonable length of time, regardless of world conditions.

When they are imported and safely stored, they will supplement the gold and silver that have already flowed in from all quarters of the world, and will help us ride out the storm. Even now we could do so better than any other country.

The government offers to stop spending if the rest of us will start. Most of us, like the government, have been spending more than we've got, but we'll raise our ante if the government will lend us the money.

Big Bill Thompson of Chicago has been promising to keep America out of war if elected mayor of Chicago again. By not punching whose nose?

President Wilson wanted "peace without victory," and didn't get it, and today there's neither victory or peace.

As for "military secrets," aeronautic or otherwise, do they really exist outside of detective stories?

East is East and West is West, and each thinks it has the beatingest fair of all time.

A lot of us don't know much about art, but know what we dislike.

There will soon be social security for everybody except socialites.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act. SIGNS AND TREATMENT OF HYSTERIA

An "up" patient in a large hospital was suddenly stricken with what the attendants thought was some kind of a fit. He threw himself on the floor, struggled with an imaginary foe, working his face, arms, legs, and body. The visiting psychiatrist took one look at him, ordered the attendants away and advised the patient to behave himself as there was nothing really wrong.

The "fit" was simply hysteria where the individual, starving for attention, desires to be the central figure or hero in the "show."

Instead of a "fit," there may be loss of speech, no appetite, vomiting, inability to swallow food, or loss of memory. Dr. S. Barton Hall, Liverpool, in The Practitioner, states that before a patient's condition can be called hysteria, it must fulfill the following requirements:

1. An examination of the patient from head to foot, including laboratory investigations shows that there really is no organic cause for symptoms.
2. The underlying circumstances causing the patient to use any of the above methods to call attention to himself should be found. There must be something giving him a feeling of inferiority, a feeling that he is not making a success of himself.
3. The underlying cause or reason must be related in some way to the patient's symptoms.
4. As there is always some background for the behavior of the individual, something that has happened in years past, thus something must be located.

"The patient appears to her (or his) friends as somewhat selfish and self-absorbed; there is a lack of genuine emotional power, a defect which the patient attempts to make up for by these melodramatic acts."

In treating these cases Dr. Hall suggests that the physician should adopt the same serious attitude that he applies to patients with organic disease. He must not try to ridicule or suggest that the patient is "acting." He must be careful examination and explanation show that there is no basis, no organic condition, that could cause the symptoms.

Dr. Hall further suggests that getting the patient away from the surroundings where his fits or other "behaviors" make an impression is an important part of the treatment. The hysterical patient will not show or create a scene if he is left unnoticed.

Neurosis

Do you have pains or other symptoms whose cause cannot be found? Do you believe you have some organic disease which all the medical tests you have had do not reveal? Send today for this enlightening booklet by Dr. Barton entitled "Neurosis" which explains how the cure of such cases is accomplished where no real trouble exists. Send your request to The Bell Library, 217 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service, and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

March 3, 1929.—DeWitt Beach died at his home in High Falls, aged 75 years.

Telephone service here hard hit by heavy snow storm.

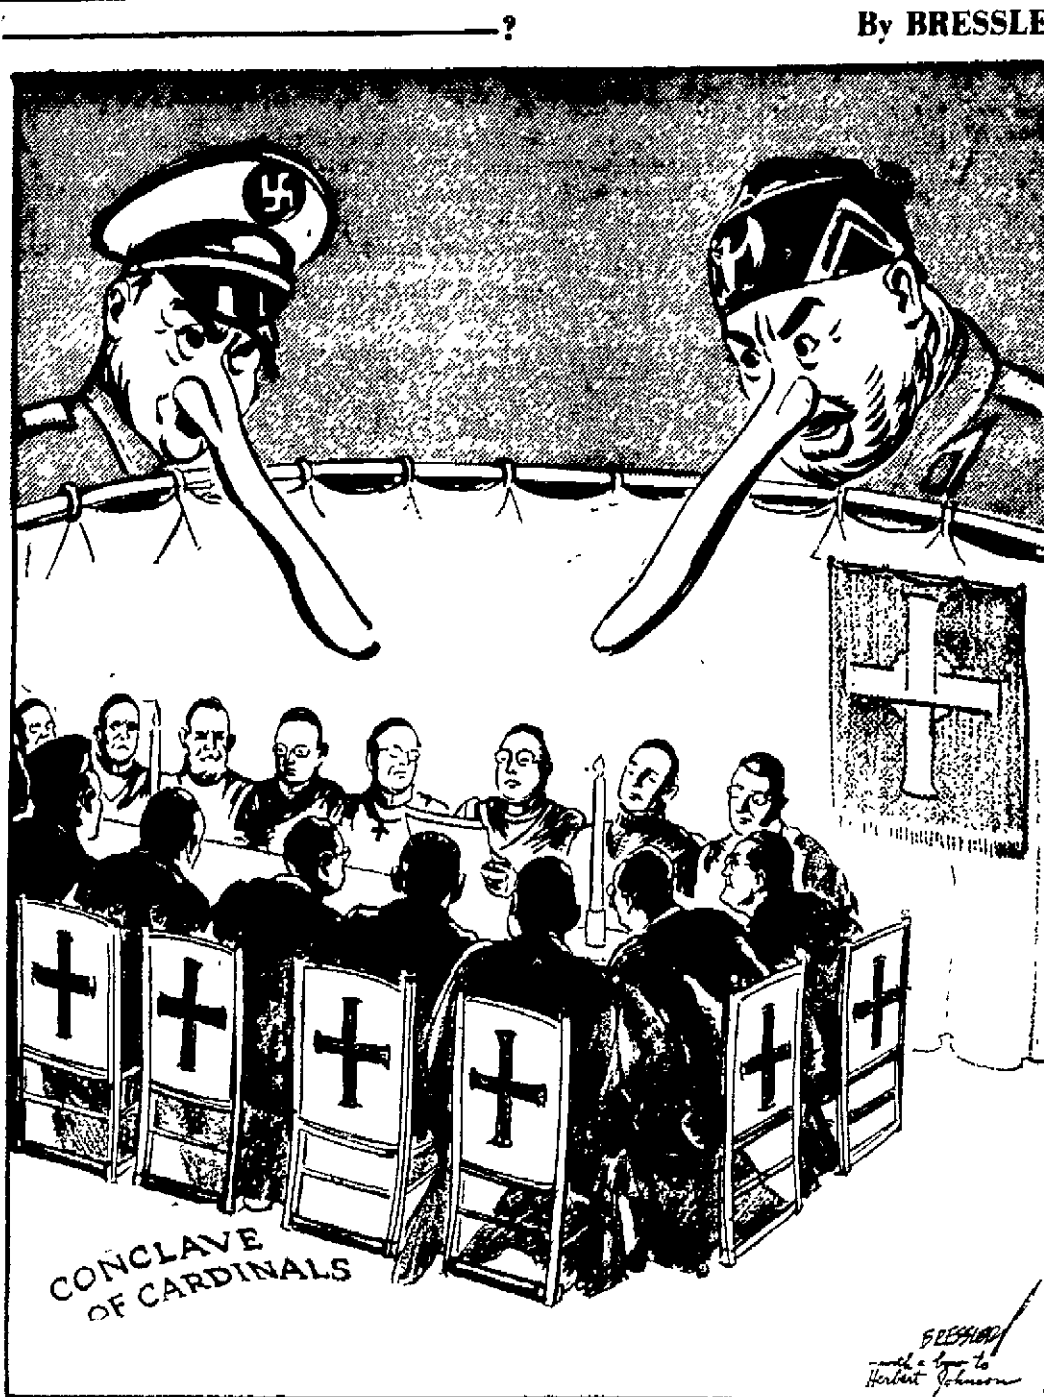

Mrs. Leonard Hill died at her home in Blue Mountain.

Harry Hales of Flatbush avenue and Miss Violet Cutler of Deerpark street married by the Rev. Wilbur P. Stone.

Lemon Grove, Calif. (AP)—After six years of an unusual debt-payment system, Dr. Ibon B. McGregor has moved into a substantial two-story dwelling. Unable to collect his bills in the worst of the depression, the physician wrote some 50 patients suggesting they contribute their labor in building him a house. Not one returned. The "first shift" did not complete the house, but subsequent calls on delinquent patients gradually finished it. Since he had fixed his professional fees, he insisted each worker fixed his own "wages" for construction work.

Norman Okla. (AP)—Their principal purpose in coming to the university was to "make friendships." 113 of the 333 freshmen women in Oklahoma university said recently in a questionnaire. Second most important reason was to "learn how to study" and third to "become more self-reliant." Far down in eighth place was the husband-hunting motive, jotted down as the "make friends with men" purpose on the questionnaire.

Huntington, Ind. (AP)—After withstanding rain and snow nearly 12 years, an underground fire in a peat deposit near here finally has exhausted its fuel supply and gone out. The fire killed grass, bushes and small trees over a patch more than 700 feet long and 30 feet wide. In winter, snow melted off the place even in the coldest weather. Peat was living nearby say the muck soil started burning in July, 1927. They expressed belief a live cigar or cigarette may have set it on fire.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

Babson Says Don't Let Another War-Scare Kill Business

Babson Park, Florida, March 3.—The war-scare of last September pulled business up short throughout the world. Radio announcers, press dispatches, bulletin boards all screamed war. Retail trade slowed down; business men were terrified; investors dumped securities. We had a minor panic. As a result, the sharp business recovery which started in June, 1938, and carried on through July and August, was almost snuffed out. It was well into mid-October before people stopped shivering and trembling over the "war" war built up by hysterical radio commentators and frenzied press dispatches. The American public was fooled into thinking that the poker game going on in Europe would end up in a real war!

If the press services and radio bulletins had played up the very optimistic and encouraging domestic news of the moment, as prominently as they played up this poker game, business would probably have gone on just as usual. In my thirty-five years' experience of business observing, I cannot recall a situation which was more over-played and over-emphasized than last September's war scare!

Public Getting Jittery Again. Now, it looks like a repetition of the Czech crisis could easily be re-enacted. Today's news is filled with war rumors. Every move the dictators make is analyzed and dramatized. The columns are all broiled up over the U. S. armament plans and foreign policy. The public is getting jittery. Business men are holding up their orders. Uncertainty is gaining the upperhand. "I'm going to see what Hitler does next before I buy anything" is the typical comment of the day.

Yet the foreign situation has not changed. Everyone knows that Hitler intends to push on to toward the East and that Germany and Russia some day may struggle in a real war. Mussolini should be paid either by cash or otherwise for his good work in Spain, Ireland and France, however, are in no more danger of a conflict now than there were a year ago or three years ago.

Domestic Business Good. Moreover, the domestic business situation is sound. There has been no change in the basic picture since two months ago. At that time I outlined the reasons why business should be better in 1939 than in 1938. I see no reason yet to change my forecast even though business is running slightly lower than in mid-December. However, I expect that we will have a sharp improvement this spring.

Why should we worry about hostilities in Europe? As I pointed out last fall, the World War pushed American business to undreamed of heights. It is true that the first outbreak produced a sharp drop. Within a few months after hostilities started, however, all records were being smashed. If Europe again sees a real war the combatants will need billions of dollars worth of our raw materials, food stuffs, and manufactured goods. So why be scared to death because of the possibility of a war in Europe when it will be to follow the World War pattern, would prove bullish on American business?

Play Up Our Own Troubles. Naturally, I do not want war. There is no quicker way to get into one, however, than to talk war, eat war and live war. That is why I hate to see our people giving such a tremendous amount of attention to the European situation. That is why I dislike the constant dramatization of Hitler and Mussolini. There are "going-ons" in this country twice as dangerous to our liberty. These could be blazoned on the front pages and over the airwaves, if we must scare ourselves to death.

I am not a "Pollyanna" disciple. I am not urging the press and the radio to play down European news. I am asking only that our domestic news be dramatized and given just as much human interest as the "hot" stories from Europe. There is plenty of good news coming out from industry, from laboratories, from churches, yes, even from Washington—to provide an antidote for the unpleasant dispatches from abroad.

I know Europe and I urge readers to forget it for this spring at least. Turn to your business and your job. Now is a chance to make some money while the other fellow is trying to find out where "Luthenia" is on the map! Readers will remember that I gave them the right steer last September. Now here is another opportunity for those with courage!

Krumville, March 2.—Conrad Christensen and Martin Thomsen have completed the work of building the new porch on the rear of the parsonage, also completed repairing the blinds on the church, and the Rev. William H. Barringer has completed painting the blinds, and is now busy painting the porch.

The special committee appointed by the Ladies' Aid Society last meeting to buy the material and make the curtains for the rail in front of the church altar and choir, were Mrs. Katherine Merrihew, Mrs. Katie Davis and Mrs. William H. Barringer. They have completed the work and it is a fine improvement to the church.

Henry Merrihew and his mother, Mrs. Katherine Merrihew, with Mrs. Katie Davis and Mrs. William H. Barringer, were at Kingston last Thursday.

Last Sunday guests at the home of John Barringer were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith of Hurley avenue, Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hovey and the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer, of Krumville. This was a birthday dinner and party in honor of Mr. Smith's birthday.

Monday evening of this week, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis and their sons, Richard and Robert, also Mr. and Mrs. Cecil M. Gray and their daughter, Lois, of Olive Bridge, spent the evening with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Katie Davis, it being the birthday of Mrs. Davis.

Lincoln and Oscar Christensen of New York motored here last Friday to spend the week-end with their parents and sister.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

No. 20
 Items Exempt From Tax

Certain items are specifically exempt from the income tax and need not be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income. Among such items are the proceeds from life insurance policies paid by reason of the death of the insured. Amounts received (other than amounts paid by reason of the death of the insured and interest payments on such amounts and other than amounts received as annuities) under a life insurance or endowment contract, which are less than or exactly equal to the premiums or consideration paid therefor, are exempt from federal income tax. Any excess received over the consideration paid is taxable. Amounts received as an annuity under an annuity or endowment contract shall be included in gross income, except that each year the excess of the amount received over 3 per cent of the aggregate premiums or consideration paid for the annuity is tax free until the aggregate of such sums excluded from gross income for the taxable year 1938 and prior years equals the aggregate premiums or consideration paid for the annuity. There are also exempt from tax amounts received by gift, bequest, devise or inheritance, interest on obligations of the District of Columbia, any territory, state, county, or municipality; interest on certain bonds issued by the United States government or its possessions, and on federal farm-loan bonds; amounts received through accident or health insurance or under workmen's compensation acts for personal injury or sickness, and damages received on account of such injuries or sickness.

Pensions and compensation received by veterans from the United States are exempt; and pensions received from the United States by the family of a veteran for services rendered by the veteran to the United States in time of war are exempt, as gifts.

There is also exempt from federal income tax the rental value of a dwelling house and appurtenances thereof furnished to a minister of the gospel as part of his compensation. Other items excluded from gross income are alimony and city jury fees.

ZENA

Zena, March 2.—The public is invited to a dance at the Zena Country Club on Saturday, March 4.

Congratulations are extended to Miss Dorothy Fuller of Kingston and Henry Higgins of Zena on their engagement which was announced last week.

The monthly business meeting of the Zena Country Club will be at the club, Friday, March 3.

Gerald DeWitt, of Accord, spent the week-end at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Montecena DeWitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman DeWitt and son, Donald, of Poughkeepsie, and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob DeWitt, of Accord, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Montecena DeWitt.

Forgotten Lantern on Ride. Elkhart, Ind. (AP)—A car inspector, looking over a fast New York Central passenger train at Toledo, O., left a lighted lantern on the steps of a coach. The lantern rode the 133 miles to Elkhart, passing over five grade crossings, without turning over or extinguishing itself.

Most men would succeed in their business if they didn't have to take so much time from it in listening to others tell them how to run it.

Today in Washington

New Type of Leadership on Behalf of Curtailed Spending in Democratic Party

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, March 3.—Almost six years to a day since the Democratic party took over the legislative and executive branches of the government, a new type of leadership has arisen from its own ranks—a leadership on behalf of curtailed spending.

Coming as it does from the man who two years ago was defeated by one vote for the titular leadership of the United States Senate, the formal statement by Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate finance committee, strikes a note of warning as well as appeal for a united effort of all parties in Congress to map out a new fiscal policy.

What the Mississippi senator saw fit to say publicly at this time, just as the President is returning to Washington from a brief vacation, will not popularize him with those members of his own party who have been in favor of unlimited spending, but, on the other hand, it is exactly what was revealed in the last congressional elections as the unmistakable demand of the American people.

The administration may well agree with Senator Harrison—spending is not a policy which has unqualified support. But this is a far cry from finding a substitute in order that the economic system may function without a serious deflation. For, every time there has been any serious cutting of appropriations or withdrawal of government spending, there has been a deflationary cycle which has added to rather than subtracted from the ranks of the unemployed. The Senate finance committee chairman realizes this when he says:

"I appreciate the difficulty of the task; but if everyone connected with the operation of government, whether in the executive or legislative departments, will realize the serious fiscal situation confronting us, and counsel together and cooperate in mapping out a plan, and unflinchingly and without political consideration work toward that end, we can accomplish results that will bring hope and encouragement to our people and financial stability to our government."

This is plainly an appeal for the submerging of party differences, and for a last effort to save the Democratic party from defeat in the 1940 elections. It is an appeal which has the solid backing of the independent Democrats in the Senate, including Vice President Garner. It is timed to coincide with the measures of appeasement which lately have been disclosed by Secretary Hopkins of the department of commerce and Treasury department.

The specific issue raised—whether to pass a law raising the limit of debt beyond $45,000,000,000—is not in itself of consequence except as a symbol of economic policy. The present debt limit will hardly be reached till July, 1940, and any refusal to raise that limit now would work no hardships, because, by the congressional session of January, 1940, it will be time enough to determine to what extent the debt limit shall be increased. For the moment, it may have a soothing effect on business to have Congress refuse to increase the debt limit.

But such a gesture by itself would be transparent. Unfortunately, it is easier to talk economy than it is to practice it. And, so far as Congress is concerned, it already has been going on record in favor of expenditures that could be curtailed. Take the Gilbertsville dam. Last year $5,000,000 was spent, and now, because that sum was advanced, it is planned to go on till $100,000,000 is spent for a power project which can have the effect of throttling the expansion of and the financing of the private utility business.

The hypercritics of Congress are usually most numerous in the field of spending. Each member has his pet project. And, when appropriation bills are presented for passage, they usually have been log-rolled into final form by mutually assisting interests, so that it is difficult to vote out any items specifically.

To get the record straight, it is important to recall that Secretary Morgenthau gave Congress an economy program in the autumn of 1937, but, within a few weeks thereafter, it was rejected by Congress and a resolution of "deficit financing" was announced. Today, the policy of spending to maintain purchasing power is entrenched as a stop-gap, but not as a permanent program. The administration would gladly cut the budget and eliminate the emergency expenditures if someone could guarantee that private industry and business would immediately reemploy those released from WPA and similar relief works. It's the transition period, with its risks of serious deflation, that the administration fears, and, until a substitute for public spending arrives, it is doubtful whether much economy will be practiced.

Congress is mainly at fault. It has refused to provide an intermediate credit system to provide capital loans for American business, and it has refused to listen to common-sense pleas for a re-adjustment of the tax burden so as to provide incentives for business. There never was any better way of increasing the national income and providing employment than to remove the impediment to a free flow of capital. These are by no means entirely legislative areas, but many of them are, and, if Senator Pat Harrison, who wants spending curtailed and who presides over the all-important Senate finance committee, will work with equal fervor for a removal of the impediments in tax laws, in banking laws, in securities laws, in labor laws to the flow of capital and the exchange of goods in America's huge domestic market, then the gestures of today will become the achievements of tomorrow. Otherwise, the talk of economy and curtailed spending will be merely another one of the series of platitudes of which congressmen on both sides or the political aisle have of late become aggressive spokesmen.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, March 1.—Larry Kelder visited his mother at West Shokan Heights, Tuesday afternoon while enroute from Albany to his home in Montclair, N. J. He was scheduled to enroute from Florida, Wednesday, where his wife and family are staying and by back to New York after a short stay in Tampa.

Mrs. Arthur Snyder and daughters of Traver Heights, N. Y. were Kingston visitors, Monday.

Julian Eckert, who is at the Benedictine Hospital, again is showing improvement.

Mrs. Lena Pleasants and family of Bridgeport, Conn., are here for a few days' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lane, of Boiceville, are parents of a daughter born Friday.

William Colange has rented his corner store to Charles Gustafson of Hurley, who took the business Wednesday, March 1. Mr. Colange is retiring after a period of 31 years since he first entered the employ of Delancey N. Mathews in the old village of West Shokan. Mr. Colange took over the postmaster's office in June, 1913, when the postoffice was transferred to his newly opened business in the store and residence building newly erected by Filmore Bell on the Watson Hollow road. Four years later, in the spring of 1917, Mr. Colange purchased the home and farm property of the late John G. Eckert and erected his store and public hall, where the business has since been conducted. Mr. Colange has moved his family in the comfortable adjoining living-rooms over his garage. Mr. Gustafson and his wife are making their home in the connecting store residential apartments vacated by Mr. Colange who, for the present, will continue in the capacity of postmaster.

Morton Roe, of West Shokan Heights, made a trip to Kingston on Saturday.

Mrs. Ole Burgher of West Shokan Heights, who suffered a heart attack last week, is recuperating at her home. Dr. Hans J. Cohn attended her following the attack.

Mrs. Lena Pleasants and children, Robert and Ruth, spent Tuesday evening with the Davis family at West Shokan Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Burgher were entertained Saturday evening at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Lyon at Ashokan.

Mrs. Mildred Roe of West Shokan Heights was entertained over the week-end at the home of an aunt in Kingston.

Donald P. Bishop recently installed new kitchen plumbing fixtures at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Van DeMark of Watson Hollow Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Avery and Mrs. James Burgher of Maple Dell Farm were socially entertained Friday evening in Kingston.

The Garden Seed Club members of the West Shokan School are making favorable progress with the annual sale of flower and garden seeds. Their share of the proceeds will be used toward paying expenses for a trip to the New York World's Fair.

Mrs. Francis Whittier and friends of Fort Washington, L. I., are enjoying a late winter stay at Tuckaway House.

Vegetable Plot Needs Much Sun

Few properties are so laid out as to provide an ideal vegetable garden site. Shade trees, the proximity of other buildings, the placing of the house on the ground space or other reasons are likely to interfere. It is necessary to take the lay of the land as it is and pick out a garden spot as good as may be under the circumstances. In other words, make the best of the situation.

The fact that the home site does not offer an ideal place for vegetables should not prevent an effort to grow vegetables. In no other way can really fresh and highest quality vegetables be obtained. Any piece of ground, even as small as 5 by 5 feet, will grow a supply of something in the way of vegetables. The size for an all around garden to supply a season's vegetable for a family of five is 20 by 20 feet and from this size up.

There is only one absolute necessity in selecting the garden location and that is sunlight for at least a portion of the day; the longer the garden may have the sun the better. However, good gardens are often seen in city back yards which get only a few hours of sun daily. If the garden can have sun from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon, any of the common vegetables can be grown successfully. Many of the standard vegetables can be grown with even less sun than this. This has been proved by actual experimental test. It is not an experiment of dubious result to try to grow vegetables on a partially shaded site.

Ideal soil isn't often found. Take the soil as you find it and proceed to build it up. This is no great task. The one feature to avoid is a low lying position that is always soggy and in which water is bound to stand after rains. This is one feature that bars a site for successful vegetables until drainage has been supplied.

Gardens Must Be Grown in Soil

Although we read with interest accounts of plants grown in tanks of water, or beds of sterile sand or cluders flooded at intervals with nutrient solutions, the experienced gardener knows that gardens must always be grown in soil.

A garden is more than a place where plants are grown. It is a decoration of the earth; it beautifies the home surroundings, it recreates the splendor of nature, which civilization has destroyed. To accomplish this with tanks of water would obviously be impossible.

While experiment may seem to raise no doubt as to the need for careful soil preparation, since plants can thrive without any soil at all, there really is no such doubt. The functions of the soil are well understood; and the success of any garden is still dependent upon how well the soil is prepared to perform its functions.

What does soil do? It stores the plant food upon which the plants must draw as they grow. It serves as reservoir of water, which dissolves these plant foods and carries them to the roots and thence to the structure of the plants. It provides an anchor for the roots, enabling the plants to stand upright and resist the attacks of wind and rain.

Two qualities of soil which are important are its texture, or "friability," and its fertility. The latter can be corrected easily by means of modern commercial plant plants. Texture is chiefly a matter of coarseness of particles. A friable soil is free from clods, but at the same time has particles that are fairly coarse, permitting air to penetrate, excess water to run through quickly, and roots to expand with no resistance. Such a soil is easily spaded and cultivated.

Clay is composed of fine particles, too compact, too retentive of water, and too much inclined to harden and crack as it dries. To loosen it, pulverized limestone is the best material, added in liberal quantities. Large amounts of sand, or fine clays may be added with benefit. Lime, like the limestone, causes the clay particles to collect in larger grains, and makes such soil more friable.

Humus is still important in soil, especially in gardens which cannot be watered. Humus makes the soil spongy and retains water without creating bad drainage. It should be added to soil by any means at one's disposal, through decayed manure, peat moss, or as the farmer does, by turning under crops of clover.

Amateurs should not start hotbeds too early. The best time is about two months before it is safe to set tender plants outdoors in your vicinity. Your plants should be about ready to move when the safe time arrives.

PORT EWEN NEWS

To Hold Minstrel

Chapter 39

The Besieged City

"IT IS all over with James," Petrel told them.

"I say, you did that!" Peter was concerned, affectionate.

"I would have been broken away. It never really worked. I'd been away too long. Perhaps I could have held him in it. I don't know. I didn't try. Because he's more in love with Tamara, and I think they'll be happy."

"With Tamara—after all!" Petronella could hear the edgy resentment in Peter's voice. She squeezed his arm, and smiling, shook her head at him reprovingly.

"Don't be angry. Think straight! I didn't, at first. That was why, when Clara first asked me to come out here, I wouldn't. But she made me see it differently."

There was a silence, till Tony said fervently, "Lord, bless Clara!"

Peter withdrew "I am it, hasty, tomical embarrassment."

"I say, you two can get on without me for a few minutes. I think I'd just like to get back into the light, and read Marigold's letter."

Petronella opened her handbag, and found it for him. "Here it is!"

When he had gone, Tony's arm went around her shoulders. Gravely, he asked her, "Would you go home again, and wait for me in London, if I promised to be there within a month?"

Petronella turned, and stood square with him. She smiled and shook her head. "There's no need. I'm not afraid any longer."

His arms went round her, pulling her close to him, he kissed her hard, and painfully. She held tightly to him, his rough, lean cheek pressed against her own.

"I was insane to lose you like that. But I thought it was for your good."

"You couldn't know. If I hadn't loved you, it might have been. He held her away from him, explaining quickly."

"I didn't believe I should persuade you to go again. You flung off home, so angry and revolted. I thought you'd marry your James Randall, and live happily. Thanking your stars, over each morning paper, that you hadn't married me. Most women do that. They marry without love. It comes to them, as part of home, a security, which means much to them. That was the only reason I didn't write a month or so ago. By that time I wasn't so sure. I felt it was a mistake. That you might be miserable, married to Randall. Peter read me extracts from your letters. They didn't sound radiantly happy."

"Would you have tried to stop me marrying him?"

"No, I wasn't certain enough. I left it to you. Thank God you had the courage to come back."

Petronella smiled. "Clara sent me. I was nearly too proud."

Tony took her by the shoulder, and pulled her, nearer the window of the train, so that he could see her face.

"You're thin. But your eyes are like stars. Poor James! The stars didn't shine for him."

"He won't miss me much," Petrel agreed. "You're not sorry I couldn't stay away?"

"Sorry?" He kissed her. "To any sane person, Petrel, England is heaven, and Spain is hell. But to me, at this moment, things feel reversed."

"He, too!" she breathed. Their hands gripped very tightly. This last agreement, she knew, was final. Clara had been right. Terms had taken care of themselves.

Long, Dark Drive

"WE'RE getting near Albacete. Let's find Peter. He's probably engaged in political argument by this time." With Tony's arm round her, Petrel opened the compartment door again. Peter looked up at them. He had been studying, with the corporal, a grimy map of the environs of Madrid.

"In case Clara's idea is feasible, I think I've spotted just the place for your children's camp," he told her. "Place called Chinchon, practically deserted town, barns, school, Casino all ready for occupation. Come and look!"

Petrel bent obediently. "Where is it?" she asked. "I believe we went there one day, when we were last in Madrid."

"That's the place!" He looked up into her face, which was close to his own. He raised his eyebrows, questioning. "Everything all right?"

Petronella smiled and nodded. One of her hands was still in Tony's. Tony leaned forward.

"Peter getting curious?" But Peter denied it, flatly.

"Shucks! I've got eyes," he said. They accomplished the long, dark drive to Madrid safely. But they did not feel sure that the lorries, ahead of which they hurried, could have done the same. It was a moonless summer night. But there were stars. They drove as fast as they dared, without lights. They left the convoy several miles behind.

They had been going for over an hour in Peter's large car, when they heard the drone of planes to the west. They knew what they might have to expect.

"Drive on, fast," he urged the driver. They fled through the warm summer night, past barren hills, and barely cultivated fields. The isolated, curiously shaped trees of Spain stood darkly against the star-whitened sky. A few minutes later, behind them, they heard the rattle of machine gun fire.

Real War

PETRONELLA turned in her seat, to look through the tale window, in the back of the hood. She was silent. She was hoping that the young corporal would come through with his life. That the plight of those men was not as terrible as it sounded.

"Afraid they're getting it. But they'll have scattered." Tony's arm tightened round her. She leaned her head, so that it touched his, for a moment.

"They didn't see us. We shall get through all right now." Peter was casual. Petronella supposed that he was used to this kind of experience. His only reason for hurrying had been that she was with him. She remembered other times, when even that degree of caution would not have occurred to him. But Madrid must be more perilous than anywhere else they had been together. This was real war. To perform his job, Peter must risk his life constantly. He would do so, unflinchingly. She was beginning to understand why Martin thought so much of Peter. Peter's work did still come first with him, even though he loved Marigold, and must wish to live. Had she always misjudged him. She wondered, or had he changed? In past years, she had believed that dangerous work was a blessing to Peter, because he loved danger. Because he was never fully alive, except when he was encountering risks. But whether that had been so or not, when he was younger, she believed that now he had changed his outlook. He acted with real courage.

And Tony? She had not dared to ask, yet, whether they contemplated flying over the lines to Franco's territory, as Martin believed possible. Tony was still here and had not mentioned leaving. She would know soon enough.

They were searched for arms and had to show their papers four times after entering the city, before they reached the hotel Bristol. Twice, their papers were fired upon for no apparent reason. Here and there, astonishing gashes in fine buildings, and fallen cascades of masonry showed where shells had dropped.

"Seems fairly quiet," Peter commented. Petronella controlled a desire to laugh. She would get used to it soon. What he meant was that there had been a brief interlude in shelling. The porter of the hotel assured them "there was not much happening tonight."

"With any luck, we shall all get some sleep," Tony agreed, smiling. "You must need it, Petrel."

Petronella said good night to them both. For some time she found it impossible to sleep. There was intermittent noise below in the streets. She heard firing, and knew that, as they had told her to expect, snipers were busy from roof tops and windows. Although she was happy tonight, there was dangerous happiness. From Peter's words she knew that he was expecting things to get worse. The front line was getting nearer and nearer. Franco was going to take Madrid. The horrible things happening out there now, were nothing to what they would see if they stayed. If she stayed, Petrel corrected herself. For Peter would certainly remain on, with Tony, only exchange Madrid for another equally hazardous adventure. As long as she could stand it, without hindering them, Petrel determined, she would wait here. From what Peter had told her, she could do Clara's job, easily, within a few days. But it might be some time before she was asked to help in actual organization.

She met Peter at breakfast, and poured out his coffee for him. He saw that she was pale. He smiled encouragingly. But he himself looked disheveled and tired.

"It is extraordinary how you get used to things."

"Yes, I expect I shall."

"There's a big raid expected tonight, so I've advised Tony to put off Chinchon till tomorrow. He's going to introduce you to some of the most useful authorities, instead."

"Do you think they'll agree?"

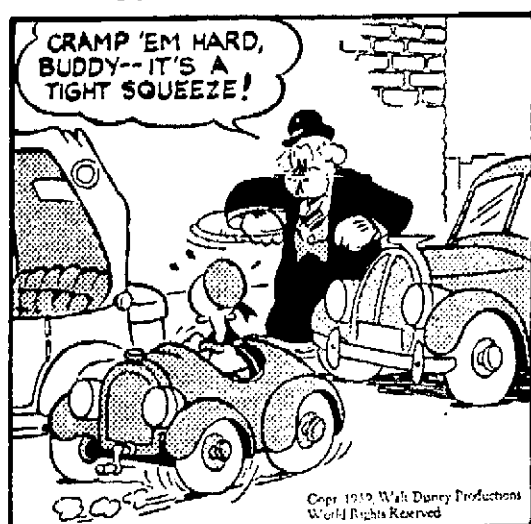

"Thinking it over, I believe it is too near home. These people are extraordinary. A week ago, a camp was planned for them, and a train load of refugees was deposited about forty miles south. But by the time the second train arrived, the first lot had time to discover how bare and uncomfortable everything was and to feel homesick. They simply piled in and came back again."

Petronella could not help feeling he might be right. It would not be as easy as it sounded, to help Clara.

"An Ounce of Prevention--" From long years of experience, I offer a prediction: This month of March may bring to you a grave affliction. Associated with the thoughts of lambs--and lions, too--Are fears--(or are they hopes?)--or what may come to me--or you.

Since sulphur and molasses healed most spring complaints with ease To modern times, no one has found a cure for this disease. The symptoms are high temperature--fast heart beats--and slow sighs. Be careful! This spring malady may claim you--dumb or wise!

—Lyla Myers.

Frank--Say, Calvin, do you know Sally Starves? Calvin--The mischief she does! Frank--No, no! Jim Starves's wife. Calvin--Well, the son of a gun! Sometimes the stock market acts almost as crazy as a woman's watch.

Harold--So Gladys caught that young man who rescued her while skating? He seemed awfully shy. Charles--Yes; she had to break the ice.

READ IT OR NOT-- The word "America" is derived from the name of the Italian explorer, Amerigo Vesputi. It was first proposed by Walsingham, a teacher of geography in the college of St. Die, in the treatise called "Cosmographia," published in 1507.

The bright young thing came into the room and smiled at her mother: Bright Young Thing--Mother, I must have some money for a new dress, will you ask daddy for it?

Mother--Ask him yourself, dear. You are getting married in a month's time and you must have some practice.

"Have You Forgotten So Soon?" is a recent radio song that comes close to the limit of banality...Can't remember anything worse except that atrocity of a few months back, "I Gotcha Under My Skin."

Otto--Well, Lem, how goes that clock you won last week at the circus? Lemuel--Fine, Otto; only thing is it does an hour in less than 50 minutes.

Is there such a thing as being too public-spirited? The stock answer is aloud "No." But the wives of some of the public spirited might, in confidence, express a different idea.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Inactive Campaigning
West Frankfort, Ill.—A. M. Crim's plan of campaign for the office of police magistrate was mildly revolutionary, but it worked.
The 79-year-old candidate didn't solicit a single vote. He stayed in his office because he said he did not want the voters "to see too much of me," and he saved his election cards.

But he received more votes than any of the 59 candidates in the municipal primary. His nearest opponent got about one half as many votes.
Buried Treasure
Quincy, Ill.—Four WPA workers found a pot of gold at the end of their picks today. While working on an alley project they uncovered a broken clay pot and their picks scattered seven $20 gold pieces. Mint dates on the coins ranged from 1852 to 1860.

Next Corrigan?

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Can't vouch for it yet, but there are signs that the Dead End Kids are undergoing a decided change in character—on and off the screen.
Of usually follows on, of course The Great Lover who turns Sports King in his pictures begins to learn about sports in private life. The Snob who turns to rollicking comedy generally works at a Democratic Attitude for publicity's sake if nothing else. But the Dead Enders—maybe this is different.

Parents and schoolteachers have never liked the way the kids carried on, and they've been writing in. So the producers have tried to "soften" the boys in their films. In their new "Hell's Kitchen" the process is carried so far that the horrendous hoodlums, far from needing reformation, are instruments in the moral regeneration of a tough ex-gangster played by Stanley Fields. But that wouldn't have any effect on the kids' private lives, would it necessarily?

The Messrs. Hunt Hall, Bernard Punsley, Leo Gorcey, Gabriel Dell et al. are becoming concerned about things. At first they gloried in those years about their kitchen-misdeeds about the lot. Today they're alarmed when they read what hellions they're supposed to be.

"Just because we horse around a little," said one of the boys, "we don't want folks to get the wrong idea."

"Sure, most of us have been in show business long enough to put on a good act—but it was just an act," said another.
"Folks'll think we're awful obnoxious," said a third.
Thus the dawn of Social Consciousness, which proves that lightning can strike most any place.

LIGHTNING strikes the local eateries, too, it seems. All I know is I go peacefully along thinking if I want to I can drop in at the Vendome and eat and starve—and next thing I know the Vendome just ain't. Now I know I get a telegram saying a celestial named Ruby's taken over, and would I please? The name is vaguely familiar—from New York, I guess—so I go, and pretty soon I meet Mr. Foo, and he doesn't look at all celestial, in fact he looks like Eddie Lewis who hailed from Boston and conquered New York, then eyed the Gold Coast and sampled its climate.

NET result, says Mr. Lewis, is that Mr. Foo is here to stay—his imported chefs having proved to their satisfaction that the local water is adequate for the concoction of a savory delight yclept Egg Roll. Mr. Foo's alter ego will remain in New York while Mr. Foo himself basks in the local glimmer and I, heaven permitting, bask often in the Roll of the Egg.

Sixteen years ago, 96 per cent of the residents of Turkey were illiterate. Now, less than 10 per cent are.

Charities Unit Cites Local Case

A young woman, shabbily dressed and carrying a baby in her arms, walked into the Ulster county office maintained by Catholic Charities at 518 Broadway, recently and requested the name of an institution where she might place her baby while she looked for a job.

Miss Grace Connolly, county agent who was in the office at the time, inquired tactfully as to why she wanted to be separated from her child.
"I have to," the woman replied. "The baby and I have been living with my parents for the past year but my father is earning just about enough to take care of mother and himself and I don't want to be a burden to them any longer. Mother isn't well, so I cannot ask her to take care of baby all day. I just have to do something, she ended tearfully, and if I can only find some cheap place to put the baby, I'll manage somehow."

Skillful questioning on the part of Miss Connolly brought out the fact that the young woman had been married at 17 to a man of 25, who was unemployed at the time. "And still is," she added bitterly.

Living together in a cheap furnished room, with the man getting odd jobs and the woman assistance from her family, things were hopeless enough but the advent of the baby seemed the breaking point. The husband, overwhelmed with his responsibilities, "walked out" on his wife and she returned to her parents, disgusted with her husband and regretting her hasty marriage.

Realizing the disadvantage of permanently disrupting the home, Miss Connolly persuaded the woman to wait while she located the errant husband. After several consultations, the young couple agreed to reconstruct their marriage on a sounder foundation. A job was found for them on a small estate nearby where they received no salary but have a home with gas, light, and heat supplied. The husband is trying to get some additional part-time work to help pay expenses, and in the meantime their immediate needs are being provided by Catholic Charities, who believe that a permanent reconciliation has been effected.

This is only one typical case, taken from the files of the Family Welfare Bureau of New York Catholic Charities, which aids more than 7,000 families yearly with direct and supplementary relief and case work treatment. The division maintains, outside of the metropolitan area, seven county offices strategically located to be of the greatest service to the suburban areas of the archdiocese.

Gandhi Begins Hunger Strike

New Act Would Be "Fast Unto Death" to Aid Natives of Rajkot Says Mohandas

Rajkot, India, March 3 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi today began a hunger strike to obtain administrative reforms for the inhabitants of the tiny native state of Rajkot.

He said it would be a "fast unto death" unless the native ruler, Thakore Sahab Shri Dharmendrasinhji, gave the people "a voice in the government."

Even as the tottering Indian nationalist leader and holy man began his fast, serious communal rioting brought death to two persons in Lucknow, 700 miles from Rajkot.

The town of Rajkot lies in the interior of the Kathiawar peninsula, 110 miles west of Bombay. It is famous for its dyes.

A crowd of spectators watched Gandhi's final preparations for the hunger strike, which recalled his unconditional and irrevocable three-week fast of May, 1933, on behalf of India's untouchable lower caste.

In three other fasts he went without food for six days in September, 1932, a week in August, 1933, and a week in August, 1934.

The little man chatted with his followers as he began another important day in his demonstrative career. First there was his usual routine of massages and ablutions after which he looked at his mail.

Shortly before noon he took his last meal—whole wheat bread, tomatoes, cooked vegetables and oranges and finally a cup of hot goat's milk just before the zero hour of his hunger strike ultimatum.

Gandhi accused Thakore Sahab of breaking a promise to introduce democratic reforms in Rajkot. An hour and a half after Gandhi started fasting the native ruler maintained his stand in a letter to the nationalist leader.

Gandhi tossed it aside with the remark that "it merely is adding fuel to the flames."

The rigors of previous fasts had left Gandhi emaciated and shrunken.

Foresees Building Boom

Plumbing Inspector Charles H. Gregory said today that he was receiving a number of requests for suggestions as to how property owners could improve their homes.

He told them, he said, to see an architect as an experienced man would produce much better results and ideas would well be worth the small consultation fee. Prices to day are low, said Mr. Gregory, but have commenced to advance and will be higher. The building industry, he said, is showing signs of revival. For three years, he said, the majority of properties have been neglected and now need extensive rehabilitation work.

Kiwanians Hear Of Health Work

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, superintendent of the Ulster Tuberculosis Hospital, was guest speaker at the Thursday luncheon of Kiwanis. Speaking on the cost of operation of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital he said that this worth-while work was costing the inhabitant of Ulster county 75 cents a year and the result of the work was certainly a well worth-while investment.

Dr. Holcomb, who has long been associated with the local tuberculosis work, then proceeded to "break-down" the annual appropriation of approximately $62,000 and show that the money was well spent, that the cost of operation spread among the county population of over 80,000 was low and that since the opening of the hospital the death rate in the county from this dread disease had dropped from one of the highest rates in the state to one of the lowest.

Cures made at the hospital cannot be figured in dollars and cents, he said, and cited the number of people who are able to return to employment after treatment at the institution. While the average hospital daily cost is between $4 and $5, operation cost at the local Tuberculosis Hospital is about $3.20 from which income is deducted bringing the actual cost per day to the taxpayer down to about $2. This reflects the good management.

At present there are 57 on the waiting list for admission and patients are being moved out just as rapidly as safely will permit. The good treatment given and the results gained are responsible for the high number of admissions as well as the close check-up which is being made through associated agencies. Because of the large number of people who seek the mountain air from crowded metropolitan centers when they become affected with tuberculosis, he said, the local record indicated a large percentage of cures. However, under the law no out-of-county case may be treated by the county until the person has been a resident of the county for five years.

In 1930 there were 72 tuberculosis deaths in the county and last year there were 26, or about one third. This record indicated the good work being done.

Dr. Holcomb was presented by Dr. Robert F. Mosley, Jr., program chairman for the month.

Kiwanian Harry Connelly of Woodbury, N. J., was presented as a visitor and there were several non-Kiwanians present.

Two of Kingston's Kiwanians have been honored by District Kiwanis. Roger H. Loughran, "gentleman farmer" from Hurley has been named on the agriculture committee and Paul Zucca has been named on the music committee.

Two bowling teams who will meet in matches with the Poughkeepsie Kiwanis bowlers were formed under the management of Dr. Herbert Clark. The tentative date for the first match is March 21. On the teams will be the Messrs. Proer, Stout, Constock, Mellert, Snyder, Craft, Service, Darrow and Garrahan.

Major Sailer spoke in behalf of the Salvation Army drive now going on.

George Proer made a report for the House Committee outlining the duties of the committee and explaining what he anticipated doing during the coming year.

Pope Makes Plea For World Peace

and sends the entire nation one of his first apostolic benedictions.

Telegram to King
His Holiness personally addressed a telegram to King Vittorio Emanuele, thanking him for his congratulations and with wishes for the welfare of the king and queen as well as "the Christian prosperity of our very dear Italian nation."

Opens Pontificate

Vatican City, March 3 (AP)—Pius XII opened his pontificate today with a strong plea for peace broadcast to the entire Christian world.

Speaking from the Sistine Chapel in Latin, His Holiness called for peace with justice and understanding.

So sudden and unexpected was the Pontiff's decision to address the world less than 24 hours after his election yesterday that even Vatican authorities were not prepared for it, but an Italian summary was broadcast by government radio.

Pope Pius appealed for peace which he said, according to this summary, "we all must ardently desire, peace joined with justice and charity, peace in the family, within nations and in all men, peace which signifies mutual understanding and cordial collaboration."

Makes Peace Keystone

Like his predecessor, Pius XI, Pius XII made peace the keystone of his policy, saying the first message of the Vicar of Christ must be one of peace.

"May God reward those who invoke it, who desire it with pure heart and who pray for it and hasten it," he said.

His Holiness began his five-minute message with an expression of profound emotion for "the inscrutable purpose of God" which resulted in his election.

He thanked the Sacred College of Cardinals—of which until yesterday he was a member, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli—for having considered him worthy of the heavy responsibility and he expressed the wish its members would be his faithful and ready advisers.

Greetings to Episcopate

Then he sent greetings to all members of the episcopate and to all who worked throughout the world to "propagate the divine word," to the priesthood, missions and Catholic Action, lay society.

The Pontiff said that in his thoughts as well were all those who were outside the Catholic church.

He declared he prayed that they would hear "the insistent call from above for them to return to the mother church."

The message concluded with his apostolic benediction.

The new Pope earlier set his coronation for Sunday, March 12, when many expect a new conciliatory policy in Vatican foreign affairs to take form.

The Pontiff, raised to the vicarage of Christ by what many believe was the unanimous vote of 61 Cardinals, received this morning the third obeisance of his electors.

Cardinals Gather With Pope

The entire College of Cardinals, which became 61 with the elevation of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, gathered in the Sistine Chapel at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. E.S.T.) to kiss the Pope's slippered foot, to receive his embrace and to hear a brief discourse.

After the cardinals, headed by their dean, Cardinal Gaetano Pignatelli di Belmonte, had knelt before the pontiff in turn in the Sistine Chapel, the pontifical choir sang the Te Deum.

The March 12 Ceremonies

of the coronation for the first native Roman pontiff in 218 years may be more elaborate than any held in almost a century.

Pius XII will be the first Pope elected since the Lateran treaty adjusted differences between the Vatican and the Italian government 10 years ago, and he will be free if he chooses, therefore, to revive the old custom of going through Rome in state to take formal possession of papal properties outside the Vatican walls.

Receives Montini

The Holy Father's primary interest in diplomatic affairs was demonstrated this morning by his receiving Monsignor Giovanni Batista Montini, assistant secretary of state for ordinary affairs. He was believed to have given the monsignor instructions for notifying the diplomatic corps of the coronation.

Taking fully upon his shoulders the world-wide burdens of the church which for eight years he helped his predecessor, Pius XI, to bear, the new pontiff alone was to determine papal policy—and only he could speak authoritatively on his intentions.

Some of his intimates, however, predicted that on the basis of his attitudes in the past, Pius XII would work to better relations with countries, such as Germany, where they have been troubled.

Firm Policies

The Pontiff's policies are expected to take form slowly, with firmness but never with impulsiveness.

"Calumny in conduct and actions in dealing with the church's internal and international relations so as to better various situations" was the description of the Holy Father's likely attitude from one Vatican source.

Toward Nazi Germany's treatment of Catholics, this informant said, His Holiness was expected to show "no weakness but an attitude of watchful waiting for betterment of conditions."

In dealing with that situation—since he once was Papal Nuncio to Berlin, negotiated the concordat of 1929 with Germany and signed that of 1933 with Nazi Germany—the 63-year-old pontiff was regarded as particularly qualified from personal observations and experience.

The Holy Father—after his election yesterday and his appearance on the balcony of St. Peter's to give his benediction to

AS PACELLI ASSUMED CONTROL OF CHURCH

This picture, just received in the United States, shows Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, (center) papal secretary of state, as he took over administration of Roman Catholic Church affairs following the death of Pope Pius XI. Others in the picture are prelates, members of his executive staff. The college of cardinals later elected Pacelli to the papacy.

WHEN PACELLI VISITED U. S.

the crowds and to receive their homage—retired last night to the cell which had been his apartment during the years he was close servant of the late Pius XI.

The 262nd pontiff, spiritual ruler of 331,500,000 Catholics and a polished diplomat, faced perhaps the most troubled days since the world war—and prelates noted pleasantly that he was comparatively young, considerably below the average age of cardinals.

Enjoys Good Health

Thin and of slight build, he nevertheless enjoys good health. His paternal grandfather, a high functionary of the Vatican, died at the age of 100 in 1902. His father also lived beyond the "three score and ten."

The new pontiff faced specific difficulties in many parts of the world.

His own Catholic Italy posed a delicate situation. Racial laws, particularly those affecting marriage, which Pius XI had said "wounded" the concordat, still were on the Fascist books.

Friction between Fascists and Catholic Action was a fresh memory in the minds of Italians.

However, there were encouraging messages to Pius XII from King Vittorio Emanuele and Premier Mussolini, congratulating him on his election.

Friendly Fascist Reception

The Fascist press gave him a friendly reception.

Although not a religious controversy, the bad relations between France and Italy are known to be a source of concern to the Pope.

The new Pope could discern, however, some bright colors.

The Spanish war, which saddened his predecessor, appeared about over.

He entered his reign on an obviously popular vote given him with rarely equalled speed.

He had the backing of 21,000,000 Catholics in the United States, whose government repeatedly has demonstrated friendliness such as to arouse speculation on possible resumption of diplomatic relations.

As cardinal, the Pope lunched with President Roosevelt two years ago on his visit to the United States. Pius XI had hoped to resume diplomatic relations with the United States but he died before concrete results were obtained.

Linked Diplomatically

The United States and the Vatican were linked diplomatically from 1848 to 1867, when the legation was closed by congress. Most other nations have envoys accredited to the Holy See.

The new Pope, whom Saint Malachi was said to have foretold 400 years ago would be a "saintly pastor," is a grey-haired man of kind manners. Gold-rimmed glasses heighten the pensive expression of his dark eyes.

Associates describe him as an austere, self-denying type of loyal follower himself and capable of inspiring great devotion among subordinates.

At the same time he is a widely traveled man, famed as a scholar and linguist. A Roman noble by birth, his demeanor as cardinal was without affectation.

Clinton Ford Orchestra

Starting tomorrow night, March 4, the Clinton Ford Pavilion at Rosendale will present as their orchestra, Art Gilman and his Continentals. This eight-piece combination is led by Arthur Gilman, formerly of the Club Mirror of Buffalo and a former radio personality. In addition to Gilman's Continentals, the Clinton Ford will present The Swing Trio, A Hawaiian Group, and a Broadway floor show.

Shooting Is Investigated

Summit, N. J., March 3 (AP)—Prosecutor Abe J. David said today his office was investigating the shooting of Mrs. Elizabeth Schroeder Hummel, 25-year-old daughter-in-law of wealthy George H. Hummel, vice president of P. Lorillard Tobacco Co. Mrs. Hummel is at Overlook Hospital with a chest wound from a pistol. Declaring "we understand it was an accidental shooting," Prosecutor David said Union county Detective Chief Roy A. Martin was investigating. David said the shooting occurred Monday.

Among the Pope's first acts will be to compose his court, naming his cameriere and secretary of state, his private and other high functionaries.

Shortly after his coronation he was expected to leave the Vatican to take possession of his basilica which is St. John Lateran.

are shared by a sort of cabinet—the twelve Sacred Congregations, which are standing committees. He is the head of the church's judicial system. His little nation has its own coinage and postage stamps.

Even so, his administrative responsibilities are tremendous. In the United States alone, for instance, there are about 35,000 clergymen as agents in the propagation of the faith, as spiritual guides, educators and administrators of widespread properties.

The Official Catholic Directory lists more than 18,000 churches, ranging from cathedrals to missions, and the church has considerable other real estate.

Educational facilities in the United States include 206 seminaries, 193 colleges for men, 676 academies and colleges for girls, 1,506 high schools, 3,023 parochial schools. The total enrollment probably is around 3,000,000.

There are also 326 Catholic orphan asylums, 163 homes for the aged, and 684 hospitals.

The thousands of fraternal, professional, social and recreational Catholic groups in this country have their counterpart in other nations. In some countries there is also a political expression in Catholic parties.

Groups in the United States give attention to books, magazines, newspapers, movies and the radio, not only as agencies for spiritual advancement, but also to see that these do not carry material considered harmful.

The Legion of Decency, which headed a clean-up drive against the movies several years ago, publishes a weekly movie list for Catholics.

And the hub of all this world-wide whirl of activity is one man—His Holiness, the Bishop of Rome, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church.

Whoever occupies this throne—in the throne room in the papal quarters, Vatican City—has powers equalled by no other person.

Recognizing the pope as a sovereign, Great Britain in 1933 instructed the fleet that he is entitled to a sovereign's salute of 21 guns.

D. A. R. Group Hears Influences To Fight

At the meeting of Willwyck Chapter, D. A. R., Thursday afternoon, members were urged to all in their power to help combat subversive organizations and influences in the United States. The speaker was Mrs. Edward B. Huling of Larchmont, who, as chairman of the national defense committee of the State D. A. R., for the past three years gave an address which was in the nature of an annual report.

"Work against international socialism in your own and other churches which comes to you through numerous peace groups. It is a wolf in sheep's clothing," said Mrs. Huling. The Church League for Industrial Democracy was a group which the speaker said had no place in any church, and she also advocated elimination of birth control and labor disputes from church programs. She said that there was need for correcting the abuses of capitalism, and "not the destruction of a system which has made the United States the happiest and most prosperous nation on earth."

Giving the secretary of labor secretory power over the deportation of aliens convicted of crime, "of whom nearly 3,000 are now roaming in the U. S.," was unanimously objected to as was legislation which would permit entry of some three-fourths of a million of relatives of aliens already here at the present time. Aliens questioned were the sense in this country of several million unassimilated aliens, many of whom are criminals; the mission of thousands to increase the burdens of about ten million unemployed, and the percentage of gangster's children being unassimilated aliens. The speaker said that she believed the had come when all aliens who not intend to become citizens should be invited to return to their own lands.

Movies which are full of peace propaganda and against all progress were condemned, as "The Federal Art which is being the walls of our institutions with propaganda, and thus radio attacks on our government."

Let us protest against the Federal Theatre in its selection of patriotic plays, written and on our stage with taxpayers' money, by alien actors and communist authors; let us work against the isms, including socialism, communism, atheism, the co-actives and the occult influences which are seeking to overthrow our government; against all of bureaucracy and registration and against all existing alliances," urged Mrs. Huling.

Speaking constructively, Mrs. Huling said, "Work for our young people of tomorrow, teach them to believe that the American way is the best way in the world and credit the theory that a 'new order' is necessary. Work the patriotic education of our children."

Mrs. Huling particularly pointed out the child labor amendment which would "regiment 45,000 children under 18 years of age," also the Espionage-Coffey Act Bill, with its appropriation of half a billion dollars, tending to regimentation all between 18 and 25 years of age.

Quoting George Washington's well address, "Put none but Americans on guard," Mrs. Huling said.

The wedding will take place Easter Monday.

"LOOK TALLER" UTILITY FROCK

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9961

Here's a spring dress to be dearly beloved by young-looking matrons who wear larger sizes! Pattern 9961 puts the emphasis where it should be, on a slenderizing, height-giving button closing (that makes laundering easier)! Use the silks for shirt-waist-dress versions, and cotton prints for house frocks. The whole pretty, neat-as-a-pin business is a pleasure to make, for it has few pattern pieces, and its Sew Chart shows just how to cut and seam them together. You'll admire the two collar and sleeve versions, the ruffle trim, and the shirring or darts at the shoulders.

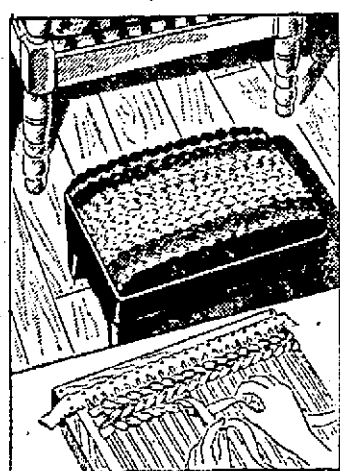

Pattern 9961 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards 59 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Order the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK of latest Spring Fashions, and KNOW that your sewing program is off to a fine start! You'll be thrilled with the number and variety of patterns, including 39 for misses, 17 for junior misses, 17 for matrons, 19 for children. Such lovely things—showing it's a season for Color and Prints, for Basic Frocks and Budget Wardrobes! See easy-to-sew styles for graduations, weddings, dances and boat trips. See, too, plenty of everyday and stay-at-home clothes! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Pattern Department, 222 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Gay Footstool Cover You Can Quickly Weave

How cheery and inviting is this handwoven footstool cover! You can easily weave it—from odds and ends of colorful cloth—on a simple homemade "loom."

Choose gay colors that combine well—warm beiges and reds, greens and yellows. For your loom make an oblong frame of four wooden slats nailed together. Tack strips of burlap to the two long sides and through these thread a "warp" or base of heavy twine.

Now for the weaving—begin with a long strip of fabric 3 or 4 inches wide, folding raw edges under. Doubling this strip, you use both ends to weave a braid-like pattern. Pass one end under the warp as you draw the other over. Simple—as the illustration shows.

You'll be so proud of the finished cover you'll want to weave other lovely articles. With a homemade cardboard "loom" make a lovely evening purse. Or weave place mats of cellophane, a dainty lampshade of ribbon and lace.

Our 32-page booklet shows how to weave these "lovelies" and many more. Gives complete instructions, diagrams for wearables such as scarves, belts—for home articles, including rugs, afghan, mats.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Miss Vivi-Anne Hutton of Sweden, who will be one of the featured skaters in the Sixth Annual Skating Club Carnival at Madison Square Garden March 25, 26, 27 and 28, will arrive in New York to prepare for the international ice show which is expected to attract upwards of 65,000 spectators.

A New Splash On Pacific Coast
Seattle (AP)—The big splash in Pacific Northwest swimming circles, now that Jack Medina and the rest of the stars have graduated, is 15-year-old George Demetrius Athans, who doesn't splash. Three years ago, at 15, young Athans won a sixth place at the Olympic Games in Berlin, in the tower diving. (It might have been some of his Greek ancestors who started the Games.)

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT
(By The Associated Press)
Miami, Fla.—Obie Walker, 234, Atlanta, and Leroy Haynes, 133, Philadelphia, drew (10).
New Haven, Conn.—George Pope, 144, Meriden, outpointed Oscar Suga, 146, New Bedford, Mass. (6).

In their game at White Plains Thursday night, with the Wilkes-Barre Barons, Kingston Colonials lost by the score of 38-33, and Philadelphia outpointed the Brooklyn Visitation 49-30, in the other portion of the double-feature at Westchester Community Center.

Kingston's bow to the Barons, and the Phillies victory over the Vissies, cut Barney Sedran's team's percentage in the American League down from .812 to .787 and slashed the lead of the Colonials over the Sphas from three to two games.

The Phillies will try to press harder in their scramble toward the front in two week-end games. They meet the Jersey Reds Saturday night and the Jewels Sunday. The Colonials are scheduled to play in Kingston against the Neutels Sunday, and next Wednesday will be hosts to the Visitation at the municipal auditorium.

Getting a start on the Colonials last night, the Barons held away in every period, outscoring the Sedrans by two in the first, a one number in the second and by like margin in the third and closing session. Jules Bender and Allie Shuckman with 13 and 11 points led the Barons. Carlie Johnson with 10 points and Sammy Kaplan with nine showed the way for Kingston.

Ruthaven Says Give Football Back

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 3 (AP)—Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, asserted in his annual report today that football should be abolished unless it is "given back" to the students for educational purposes.

The game, he said, has "degenerated to a ridiculous extent" into an "extravagant spectacle" from which no worthwhile advantage will ever accrue.

"If football cannot be given back to the students for educational purposes it had better be abolished before it contaminates other sports which up to the present have not developed the evils now so apparent in football," Dr. Ruthven said.

He also asserted that the game had developed from a "means of inculcating ideas of team play and good sportsmanship into an absurdly competitive sport about which tend to spring up all the evils characteristic of professional competition among those whose sole desire is to win."

Stagehand Has Race to Himself

Miami, Fla., March 3 (AP)—For two days now, Hialeah Park, the swanky local horse track, has seethed with displeasure at Owner Samuel D. Riddle's action in withdrawing his great runner, War Admiral, from tomorrow's $50,000 Widener Cup race, the mile and a quarter classic that annually climaxes the winter season here.

His action undoubtedly was a blow to the quality of the race. The Admiral and Stagehand had looked like they would go to the post about equal favorites, and indications were it would be a terrific race between the two famous chargers; a regular breath-taker. But with the Admiral out, interest has cooled right out, and Stagehand is an odds-on favorite to march away from the six horses expected to oppose him.

The payoff: If the Madden Aces defeat the Elstons tomorrow in the Saturday Recreation League, the Buccaneers will pay them $1.25. . . . Because if the Elstons win they'll be second half champs. . . . A win for the Aces would give both the Buccaneers and the Texans a chance at the playoffs. . . . So the Texans are adding hot dogs to the bonus the Aces promised the Maddens. . . . Joe Bliss is the guy that he's training at Stillman's gym in New York. . . . The big Ellenville blond better be set on being a fighter. . . . "This is the place to learn," writes Joe. . . . Imagine, Bliss, Tommy Zano, Vince Sembrino, Red Van Alstyne, Mario Severino, Carmine Pata, all the former local amateurs training under the same roof.

There was more shooting in that Uptown Merchants-Kellers game last night than in a cowboy serial. Imagine the Uptowners making 75 points. . . . A league record. . . . Cleaners Win in Overtime, Merchants Score Record 75

A hard-fighting J. Y. A. basketball team went down in defeat at the hands of the Boston Cleaners, first half champs of the American Division of the City Basketball League, in a spectacular overtime game which ended 28-25 at the Municipal Auditorium. In the other game last night, the Uptown Merchants set another scoring record for the league when they ran up a high of 75 points in trouncing a four-man Fuller shirt team 75-25.

The Cleaners took an early lead from the J. Y. A. and kept it throughout the first half which ended 18-10. Sharpshooting by the Hebrews brought them into position for Basch's deuce which tied the game up 22-22 at the end of the third stanza. A free throw by Fortel and a deuce by Bell brought the J. Y. A. into the lead 25-22. Marble, brought the Cleaners' total up to 24 points, and with 10 seconds to play Silverberg converted a free throw to tie the score up at the end of the regulation period 25 all.

J. Y. A. failed to score in the overtime period, while Zadanay and O'Hara brought the Cleaners' victory with a singleton and deuce, ending the fray 28-25.

O'Hara paced the Cleaners with eight points, and Fortel and Kline were high for J. Y. A. with seven and six apiece.

Every man on the Merchant squad found the loop several times last night when they took advantage of Fuller's four-man squad to set the new league scoring record of 75 points. Schneider augmented his individual scoring record with 21 points garnered during the throw-as-you please melee. F. Fatum led the Shirt-makers with five fields.

Temple Emanuel Forum Speaker

Tracy H. Logan, an authority on Far East affairs, will deliver an illustrated talk at the last of the forums sponsored by the Temple Emanuel and Jewish Youth Alliance of Kingston to be held at the Temple on Monday evening.

Mr. Logan lived in the Orient for more than 22 years and the first-hand experience he had among the people of China and Japan, as well as at the battle front, qualify him to treat almost every phase of the situation in the East at present. Practically all of these years were spent in China, and he devotes himself mainly to the study of conditions there. No side of Chinese life has escaped him. He has investigated intensely the causes, history and implications of the Sino-Japanese conflict, studied the nature of the Japanese, their becoming a modern power, and their increasing encroachment upon China as well as studying the character of the Chinese and the reasons why they did not take their place among the modern powers.

Much of his attention has been devoted to a survey of domestic life in China, education, health conditions, superstitions and class distinctions. He lived for many years in the International settlement of Shanghai, and reports many interesting facts and sidelights on life among the poorer classes as well as among the elite.

Mr. Logan's parents were medical missionaries in China. He was born deep in the interior of China, in a little provincial town halfway between Shanghai and Peking. The very first recollections he has are violent and exciting. He was five years old when he heard his first battle. From that time on, there was never a dull moment with floods, revolutions, orders to evacuate the town, ravaging epidemics that the medical authorities struggled to control with what little facilities they had on hand, and thrilling raids by bandits. This formed the background of Logan's youth until he took time out to go to the United States for an education. He stayed in America long enough to attend Holokiss and Princeton and then returned to the Far East by way of Russia and Siberia.

He worked in Korea for two years and was an eye witness of a massacre of the Chinese that occurred there. In 1932, he joined the Volunteer Corps at the outbreak of the Japanese attack and engaged in the defense of the Chapei boundary. Right now, he is devoting himself to gathering all the material he had been collecting during his years in the East, and arranging it suitably for delivery to American audiences who are interested in conditions in China.

Howard Carter, 66, Dies in London

Man Who Found King Tut's Tomb in Egypt Victim of Heart Disease

London, March 3 (AP)—Howard Carter, who with Lord Carnarvon was the first man in 22 centuries to cast eyes on the burial chamber of boy King Tut-Ankh-Amen is dead.

Last night, 16 years after the tomb of the Egyptian pharaoh was opened in disregard to an ancient curse—"Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of a pharaoh"—the Egyptologist died.

He had been ill for some time and it was understood heart disease caused his death. He was 66 years old.

Carter scoffed at the curse which was recalled when Lord Carnarvon, who financed the Tut-Ankh-Amen expedition, died six weeks after the crypt was opened. A mosquito bite caused his death.

About a score of others connected with the opening of the tomb have died in recent years. Several were workmen who helped remove 2,000 tons of earth to reach the burial place.

Carter found the tomb on November 30, 1922, in the Valley of Kings on the west bank of the Nile at Luxor, and summoned Lord Carnarvon so that his backer might join him in the first peep into a long hidden repository of Egyptian antiquity.

Candles were carried into the tomb. Their flicker caught the glitter of treasure piled up near the mummified body of the boy king, who is supposed to have ruled Egypt about the time Moses led the children of Israel from bondage.

Tut-Ankh-Amen's mummy was encased in three sarcophagi, the innermost of gold.

The discovery delighted Egyptologists and caught the imagination of laymen because of the lavish way in which it retouched a picture of the past.

"To Carter the pharaoh's curse was 'lummy'."

"If anybody was exposed to the curse I was. I slept in the tomb for two weeks and even had my meals there and never felt better in my life," he said.

The archaeologist held a Doctor of Science degree from Yale University. After he was 17 years old he spent most of his life in Egypt.

Craftsmen's Club Sponsors Another Radio Show Mar. 20

Last year's radio show was such a big success that the Craftsman's Club of Kingston Lodge, No. 3, F. & A. M., is arranging a second show for this year, with a new cast. March 20 has been set as the date for the 1939 event. The program will include a service of refreshments. Tickets may be obtained from the members of the club.

The first part of the show will be given over to an amateur hour and young people who may be inclined to contribute numbers in the form of songs, dances, instrumental features, etc., are asked to send "Paul A. Zeech, who will be master of ceremonies.

The last half of the program will be composed of professional numbers.

The hall will be set up as a regulation radio studio and Thomas Bashall will be the man in charge of the controls. It is suggested that this will furnish an opportunity for entertainers to learn whether or not they are subject to "mike fright," and also teach them how to appear in case a broadcasting station is licensed for Kingston.

METACAHONTS
Metacahonts, March 2—The next meeting of the Willing Workers will be held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Osterhoudt and Mrs. Harry Osterhoudt on Wednesday afternoon, March 8.

The Ladies' Aid of the Reformed Church will serve a St. Patrick's supper in the church basement on March 17.

Friends of Percy Gazley, the rural mail carrier who is ill at the Kingston Hospital, are hoping for his speedy recovery.

Mrs. R. J. Osterhoudt, who had pneumonia, was moved to the Kingston Hospital on Sunday in the Humiston ambulance.

Stanley Kelder attended the Haverly refrigeration school at Syracuse on Friday and Saturday.

Escapes Train, Drowns
Marks, Miss, March 3 (AP)—William Thompson, negro farm hand, trapped on a railway trestle by a speeding passenger train, escaped it by jumping into the Coldwater river. He drowned.

Here's How Income Tax Slices Each Dollar A Husband Earns

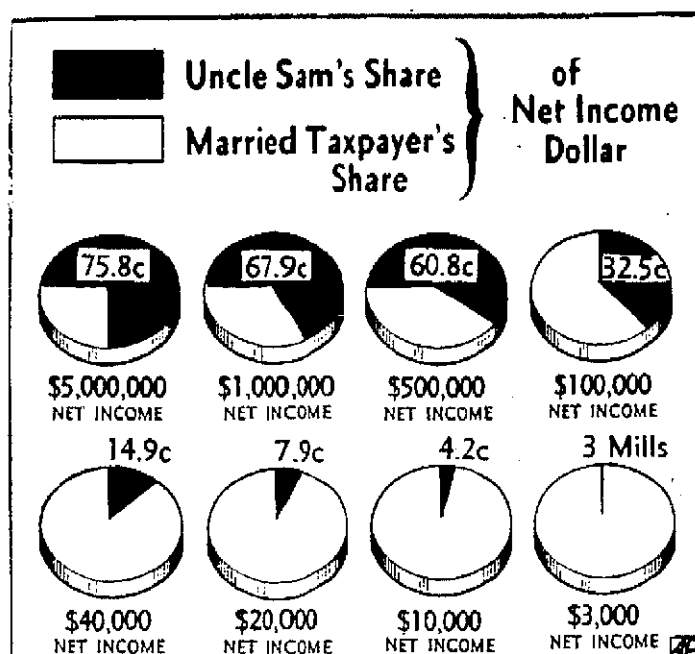

Washington—To John Q. Taxpayer the idea of March means scratch pads and stub pencils but Uncle Sam figures out his take in advance.

His bookkeepers at the Treasury estimate the U. S. will collect about $922,000,000 from personal income taxpayers in fiscal 1939, a drop from the $1,286,000,000 in 1938.

They also know who'll pay. Although it varies somewhat each year, two to three per cent of the population usually foots the bill.

And they can tell you in advance about how much your share will be just by looking on a table they already have worked out.

This pictograph shows what share Uncle Sam gets of the married man's net income—in various brackets. Taxes are higher for single taxpayers, particularly in the lower brackets.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

New Paltz, March 3—St. Andrew's Church will hold Lenten services every Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock during Lent. A visiting preacher will have charge of these services with a choir.

The Reformed Church calendar for Sunday carried a tribute to the pastor, the Rev. Gerret Wullschlegel, from the congregation to express their sincere gratitude and thanks to him and Mrs. Wullschlegel for their kind and helpful service since coming to New Paltz eight years ago.

The Rev. John W. Follette of New Paltz has been holding meetings in Gary, Ind. Mr. Follette is a poet, preacher, teacher, author, with a pleasant and interesting personality, and is an accomplished speaker and after leaving Indiana he went to Indianapolis and spent two days in Chicago before leaving for his trip home.

Mrs. Charles Young of New Paltz and Mrs. Theodore Young motored to New York Sunday.

Mrs. Margaret Denzinger of Stephentown, who has been visiting relatives in town, left for home on Tuesday.

The Study Club held a very interesting and outstanding program Tuesday in the Grange Hall. The guest speakers were the Misses Russell, Baldwin and Lipman of Vassar College. They discussed the peace problems from various angles. General Peace Problems, Student Peace Problems, Summer Peace Activities. Other points stressed were: America should remain aloof from European crises. Prevention of War, Removal of Causes of War, etc. Mrs. DeWitt Clinton Seward entertained with a piano solo, "Spring Flowers." Mrs. Kenneth Snyder and Mrs. Benjamin Mattson were hostesses.

Howard Crispell underwent an operation in the Kingston Hospital on Monday.

A number of the members of the Normal school faculty made a trip to Syracuse last week-end. George Bogart has returned from his trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Milton Gregory of Brooklyn spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gregory.

Badminton Matches
The Kingston Y. M. C. A. badminton team will play in Troy, Saturday, competing against the club of that city and the one from Pittsfield, Mass. Both these teams stand high in the Interstate League. If Kingston wins, its chances in the playoff will be good. The team leaves the "Y" at 2 p. m.

Harbingers of Spring Are Quite the Thing

It's not really time yet for the fever, but the harbingers are at hand. So says the editor, and he must be right for from all parts of the county come reports of the familiar signs that spring is near.

Mrs. Charles Smith of 49 Hanratty street reports that paucities are pushing their way up through her garden grounds and down at Highland the daffodils are doing their darndest to win early notice.

Unofficial observers of first robins are in a mixup by this time, for already many of them have been sighted, and too many have seen members of this optimistic flock at the same time, to allow for any special "first-robin-seeing" honors.
